Bonner:

Courts To Merge

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said changes in British Columbia's supreme and county courts system approved in principle by the legislature Friday are a step toward merger of the two courts.

"I look to the time . . . when the two trial divisions of the county and supreme courts will become one," Mr. Bonner said, "perhaps under the current name of the Supreme Court of British Columbia."

He said the major overhaul would mean the stationing of "resident justices of the supreme court" in various parts of the province.

LIMITS REMOVED
Two bills given unanimous second reading in the House Friday had the effect of removing monetary limits on jurisdiction of county courts over lawsuits and empowering county court judges to hear divorce proceedings.

The bills also permit use of juries in criminal cases before county court judges and proclamation provisions would involve simplification of county court procedures along lines already adopted for the supreme court.

Mr. Bonner said the amendments.

Bonner's Fringe Benefit?

Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby) had words of praise for Attorney-General Bonner Friday for his introduction of two bills re-vamping British Columbia's supreme and county courts system.

"They represent the most revolutionary change in the B.C. courts system since the abolition of the wig," he said.

"I was thinking of bringing that back," smiled the attorney-general, long a slave to "Tul Brynner" hair styles.

Haase Sentenced To Die June 30

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Mechanic Lawrence Herman Haase, 25, Friday was found guilty of murder in the deaths of pretty teen-aged twin sisters and sentenced to be hanged.

Haase, from Kelowna, was convicted of capital murder in the death of Donna Ring, 14, and sentenced to be hanged June 30.

In the death of Donna's twin sister Dianna, Haase was convicted of non-capital murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The defence indicated an appeal would be launched immediately.

There was no recommendation regarding clemency.

$150,000 Fire Hits Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A four-alarm fire gutted a flour and grain warehouse on the Montreal waterfront Friday night, causing damage estimated at $150,000.

Mr. Justice H. Allen Maclean spent most of the day charging the jury, which took just under two hours to reach a verdict.

Donna and Dianna Ring were slain Oct. 7 near their father's resort at Mable Lake, 80 miles north of Kelowna in the Okanagan Valley.

10TH DAY
The verdict came as the trial stretched through its 10th day. In convicting Haase, the jury heeded the plea of Crown prosecutor T. G. Bowen-Colehurst, who said the young mechanic should be convicted of capital murder in one death and non-capital murder in the other.

NO WITNESSES

Defence counsel Norman Mullins, who called no witnesses, suggested that the killings had been committed by someone else who tried to throw suspicion onto Haase.

While Ottawa Waits

ARMY HONED FOR CYPRUS

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department Friday honed down its "operation Cyprus" plan to the finest details.

The army has even issued information pamphlets giving Cyprus' geography, climate, population, historical background and the current political situation.

About all that the department can do now is wait for the government to decide whether to meet the United Nations request for a Canadian manpower contribution to the Cyprus peace-keeping force.

MORE INFORMATION
External Affairs Minister Martin informed the Commons Friday that no decision can be reached until a three-man UN team returns from Cyprus with more information on the responsibilities of the force.

"Canada will not shirk its responsibility as a member of the United Nations," Mr. Martin asserted.

NOT INFORMED
The UN has not informed Canada yet what kind or size of contribution it wants from this country: infantrymen or technical personnel, such as signallers.

Canada has not sent infantrymen to any UN operation since Korea. The UN requests have been for technicians in Egypt, The Congo and other trouble spots.

Troops Hard To Find

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Secretary-General U Thant Friday named an Indian general to head the United Nations Cyprus force, but ran into difficulties raising troops for it.

While Sweden agreed conditionally to provide a contingent, Brazil turned down Thant's request for men.

REFUSAL DELAYED

Finland and Ireland also held off their replies while Austria, approached informally by Thant, was reported ready to contribute only a non-combat group such as a hospital unit.

A spokesman for Brazil's Ambassador Carlos Alfredo Bernardes said his country could not raise sufficient hard currency to maintain a contingent in Cyprus.

EXPECTED U.S. AID

Diplomatic sources said Brazil had looked to the United States to provide financial backing for its contribution and apparently had been turned down.

The UN announced the dispatch of the three-man team to Cyprus.

Four Recaptured Courthouse Madhouse During Break

DALLAS (AP)—Seven prisoners broke out of the county jail Friday and two of them turned the corridors around the Jack Ruby murder trial into bedlam. One captured a woman hostage with a fake pistol.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Player stopped the prisoner with the hostage and freed her, taking the prisoner into custody.

Less than two hours later four were recaptured, including two picked up in the courthouse and immediate area.

The hostage was Mrs. Ruth Thornton, about 60, widow of a former district court judge.

Sheriff Bill Decker identified the man with the pistol made of soap as Clarence D. Gregory. The Ruby trial was not disrupted. Reporters in the courtroom said no one knew of the corridor furor.

One heroine of the wild, screaming melee was Mrs. Melvin M. Bell, wife of Ruby's chief defence counsel. Ruby is on trial for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Rose.

President? Here? Tonight?

Yes, I'm from Dallas Yes, This Is a Gun

DALLAS (UPI)—He was from Dallas and had a rifle. And he showed up at Newark, N.J., airport only minutes before President Johnson was to arrive.

It was just the set of circumstances to get John Russell in a peck of trouble, and he said, "It's kinda funny now, but I sure wasn't laughing then."

Russell, an insurance agent, had been given the rifle by a Philadelphia friend and was bringing it home.

A Newark officer asked him if that was a gun he was carrying and did he know the president was coming. "I said yes, I had a gun, handed it to him and said no, I didn't know the president was coming in," Russell said.

The guard asked Russell where he was from. "Dallas," Russell replied.

"You haven't got a chance now," the guard said. Soon, New York city police, Newark city police, state police, Secret Service men and the FBI arrived.

"I knew I was in for it."

He was questioned for more than an hour before he convinced police he knew nothing about the president's arrival.

He was eight hours late getting home.

Arrested Stripper To Testify

ORANGE, Tex. (UPI)—A brunette stripper who said Jack Ruby killed Lee Oswald to gain publicity will be escorted from Orange County jail to Dallas today to testify in Ruby's murder trial. (Ruby trial story, Page 5.)

Dallas Sheriff Bill Decker said Friday he has sent men here to fly with Penny Dollar, 21, to Dallas.

Miss Dollar was arrested in Orange and charged with possessing a dangerous drug.

She told police she had once stripped in Ruby's Carousel Club when another dancer became ill.

The tall beauty said she had "known Ruby a long, long time. My mother stripped for him 15 years ago."

Owed Throne to British Choice

Greek King Paul Wasn't Greek But Won Love of His People

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
King Paul I of Greece, a man without a drop of Greek blood in his veins, owed his throne in part to a Greek dilemma and a British choice. Greece appealed to Britain after a military revolt in 1962 to designate a new ruler.

King of Hellenes Youngest Head of State

By United Press International

The new king of the Hellenes, at 23, is Europe's youngest head of state.

During the past few months King Constantine became less the fun-loving sportsman and more the introspective young crown prince faced with the inevitable destiny of monarchy.

MAD PREMONITION?

To friends, it was almost as if he already knew or had a premonition that the illness of his father, the late King Paul, would put the responsibilities of state on his shoulders.

"Tino" to his family and intimates, King Constantine is engaged to 17-year-old Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark, now slated to become a queen while still a teen-ager.

TALL, ATHLETIC

Constantine is blue-eyed, fair-haired, weighs 176 pounds and stands just under six feet, two inches. He has an athlete's manner of moving and a competitive spirit that should serve him well in maintaining the position of the monarchy in modern, democratic Greece. Those who know him describe him as charming and witty, with unaffected manners and a strong character.

OLYMPIC WINNER

As crown prince, Constantine was the first member of modern royalty to win an Olympic gold medal, and the first Greek to win one in half a century. With only 18 months' experience in competitive yachting, he sailed his Dragon-class boat Nirela to victory in the 1960 Olympic regatta in Naples.

The young king is an excellent

KING CONSTANTINE
... monarch at 23

horseman and likes fast cars, but after his engagement to Princess Anne-Marie he remarked to a friend, "I'm through with sports cars, I'm getting married."

WEDDING CHANGE?

The wedding date had been fixed for next January, but it was not immediately known if this would be advanced or delayed because of Constantine's accession.

Anne-Marie is expected to convert from the Protestant to the Greek Orthodox Church before their marriage. The two have the same great-grandfather, King Christian IX of Denmark, so they are cousins, five times removed.

Britain gave the nod to the second son of Christian IX of Denmark, Constantine, who became George I.

Paul was the third grandson of George I to hold the Greek throne. A brother, Alexander, died in 1920 from the bite of a pet monkey. Another, George II, was felled by a heart attack in 1947 after surviving exile three times.

Paul had lived in and out of Greece as his brother's fortunes rose and waned. He was living quietly under limited circumstances in Athens as Pavlos Glouchburg when his brother's death placed him on the throne. He was crowned April 1, 1947, and quickly won a close bond with the Greek people through his friendliness and the charm of his attractive German wife, Frederika.

UPSET PREMIER
While his duties were largely ceremonial, King Paul could and did use his popularity with the people to influence the government and he once brought down a premier.

On a private visit to London in April of 1963, Queen Frederika was manhandled by demonstrators demanding the release of Communist and other prisoners from Greece's civil war of the 1940s.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis, angered by the incident, strenuously opposed a Greek royal visit to Britain scheduled later that year. King Paul insisted on going and did. Caramanlis then resigned in June.

GAVE INTERVIEWS
The king broke tradition by giving newspaper interviews. He won national popularity by openly supporting the rights of Greek Cypriots to self-determination.

King Paul's trim bearing — he was six feet four inches tall — attested to his love of sports. He served as a major-general in the Greek army in exile in North Africa in the Second World War, and later as a commander in the Greek navy. He was born Dec. 14, 1901, in Athens. His mother was a sister of the last German Kaiser.

Arms Pact Next?

Butler Says Russians See Futility of War

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler said Friday he believes the Russians now recognize the futility of war and may be seeking points of agreement with the West to follow up the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

He told a Conservative party rally:

"We must follow up the success of the partial test-ban treaty and try to achieve genuine disarmament, subject to verification and maintaining at every stage the principles and system of balance between the nations."

GENEVA PROPOSALS

Butler's address closely followed the lines of his proposals for easing the East-West confrontation, presented in the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva last week.

These got a chilly reception from the Russians, but Butler told his party colleagues: "I deeply and sincerely believe that disarmament should be one of the first aims of any government."

Greece Mourns King Paul

ATHENS (AP)—King Paul died Friday in the 17th year of his reign, struck down by a series of grave illnesses that were too much for his sturdy constitution. His son, Crown Prince Constantine, 23, at once became the monarch of Greece.

The blue and white flag of Greece was lowered all over the nation in memory of 62-year-old Paul—from the villages to Athens' Parthenon, the great temple and symbol of the grandeur of ancient Greece.

DRIVES TO ATHENS
As the nation plunged into mourning, Constantine dressed in a military uniform and left Tatol Palace, where his father died, for the 26-mile drive into Athens to take his oath of office.

The great bells tolled at Metropolis, the Greek Orthodox cathedral where Paul will lie in state. The other church bells took up the toll on this grey and chilly day as Constantine entered the capital.

Riding beside the dark and handsome new king was his sister Irene, 22, who now becomes crown princess and next in line of succession to the throne. In a car behind was his fiancée, 17-year-old Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark, the future queen.

Constantine was summoned to a gathering of government officials and Greek Orthodox church leaders at Athens palace. There at 7:40 p.m. (9:40 p.m. PST) he took the oath to uphold the constitution and defend the nation, before Premier George Papandreu and Archbishop Chrysostomos, Orthodox Primate of Greece.

Constantine assumed the throne at a time of national crisis over Cyprus.

King Paul died two weeks to the day after an emergency four-hour operation for a stomach ulcer.

At his bedside in Tatol Palace when he died were his wife, Queen Frederika, 46, Constantine, and the couple's two daughters, Irene and Sophie.

RALLIED BRIEFLY

For a time during the morning, the dying king rallied briefly and the people hoped this meant he might survive the crisis. Paul whispered to his wife and son, who had kept the long watch at his bedside: "I feel a little better."

Then late in the afternoon came a seven-word bulletin from the information ministry saying: "His Majesty the King died at 4:12 p.m."

Queen Elizabeth Grieves

LONDON (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth said Friday she was "deeply grieved" to learn of the death of King Paul of the Hellenes.

The Queen's message, to the new Greek king, Constantine, said:

"The sadness of the occasion must not prevent me from sending our warm good wishes on your majesty's accession and our hopes for a long and prosperous reign."

In Ottawa Governor General Vanier sent a message to King Constantine of Greece expressing sympathy at the death of his father, King Paul.

Fairer System

ACCEPTING, however unwillingly, that a share of capital costs of general hospitals is a local responsibility in the areas chiefly served by them, there would appear to be a good case for the establishment of a hospital improvement district to include not only the Greater Victoria municipalities but the whole of what is now commonly called the capital region. This proposal is to be discussed in the next few days by the intermunicipal committee, and deserves at least the most careful and far-sighted consideration.

British Columbia's civic authorities have argued in the past and in the interests of their taxpayers, may well continue to argue in the future that hospital facilities and service should be completely provided by the senior governments for several reasons including that municipal residents, like others, contribute their full share in sales tax; that control and direction are centralized at the provincial level; that hospital boards are not subject to councils nor ratepayers; that hospitals are required to admit patients without regard to place of residence.

But valid or not, these arguments have failed to persuade the provincial government to alter the arrangements, and the fact remains that about a third of hospital construction costs must be raised by taxation or voluntary contribution within local communities—which incidentally, despite the optimism of Victoria's city manager, bodes ill for the municipal taxpayer in connection with the province's future shuffling of responsibilities in regard to mental institutions.

This being the case and no relief in sight, formation of a hospital improvement district would seem a sensible step in so far as it would ensure equitable distribution of the local share of costs raised through property taxation and over a broader area than the four Greater Victoria municipalities. The fairness of the latter aspect is illustrated by the fact that according to a BCHIS figure, 26 per cent of patients using the two major hospitals are from outside the Greater Victoria area.

Further, as Mayor Wilson has suggested, a long-range study of needs together with district organization might enable councils to budget regularly and to best effect for the expansion of hospital facilities. The need for accommodation steadily grows; it should be met by the most effective and equitable system of planning and sharing at the local level that can be devised.

We Sit

A WELL-KNOWN Philadelphia magazine has devoted its entire April edition to Canada. Prominent among the journal's many articles describing the people and places of the Dominion to its American readers is one dealing exclusively with the city of Victoria and its residents.

Written by a Mr. Stephen Franklin and unsurprisingly entitled "The English Touch: Victoria," the article makes a laudable attempt to explain to outsiders just what we are and how we live.

Happily, it is a kind article (and truthful withal), for Mr. Franklin and his research staff have obviously not only fallen victim to the charms and beauties of our city and its environs but also developed a deep appreciation of the graciousness of Victorians generally.

This much is glaringly apparent from the very first sentence in Mr. Franklin's article, which reads: "The city of Victoria sits quietly at the southeastern tip of Vancouver Island in British Columbia."

Later on, Mr. Franklin explains his choice of the verb "sit." "Most cities of the world," he says, "are spoken of as 'standing' here or 'lying' there. Rome stands on the banks of the Tiber; New York, for all the loftiness of its buildings, lies on the Hudson. The city of Victoria, as I suggested at the outset, does neither. It sits where it is."

What approbation will Victorians all heap upon Mr. Franklin for his apt turn of phrase!

He rejects such words as "sprawl" with its connotation of sloppiness; he turns his back on others such as "rests" or "reclines" with all their hints of slothfulness and negligence, nor does he countenance "exists" with all its air of mere and bare subsistence.

Rather he chooses the word "sit"—a word with a regal tone about it. A queen sits; her minions stand. Parliament sits to govern. A judge sits in judgment.

"Sit" indicates an alertness, a determination, a positive approach. It is the position from which decisions are made and laws are passed, it is synonymous with solidity and purpose.

It is also the most dignified of all positions—the very antithesis of slouching or idleness.

For his perspicacity alone in selecting such a simple yet fitting word to describe us and our city, Mr. Franklin deserves to become an honorary citizen of Victoria.

He is in fact, entitled to a seat of honor.

Native Aliens

IT WILL COME as a surprise to many a Canadian woman who as a girl in the flush of wartime romance married a serviceman from another country being trained in Canada, to learn that she is an alien.

Even though born here, never having left the country, and living happily with her spouse in her native land. And even though her husband himself had acquired Canadian citizenship when he came in the postwar years to live with the wife he had married.

Officials of the citizenship department, however, have suddenly become solicitous about them. And they may be numbered in the thousands.

This peculiar situation arises from the fact that under the law of their wedding date girls who married foreign servicemen immediately lost their Canadian status. This was rectified by the 1947 Citizenship Act which provided that marriage to an alien did not disqualify a woman. But the relief was not automatically backdated.

Women who had lost their citizenship by marriage had to apply, and still have to, for reinstatement.

The department is anxious to restore the status many of these Canadian women have been unaware they lost, and is now urging them to make formal application for citizenship.

An easier way surely would be for an amendment to the act to correct the anomaly; many of those concerned may not hear of the department's concern for their status and go on being aliens in their native country.

"I bet Ringo's dad didn't make him practise down the bottom of the garden."

Part-Time Parliamentarians

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

ON the afternoon of last July 29, at page 2736 of Hansard, in reporting the abbreviated debate on amendments to the Senate and House of Commons Act, incorporated in Bill C-81, raising parliamentary pay by $5,000 or 80 per cent to $18,000 plus open-ended expenses, Prime Minister Pearson is quoted:

"... Members of the House of Commons, to all intents and purposes now have a full-time occupation."

Four days later, after passing the bill by a 200 to 10 vote, they returned to their "full-time occupation."

On the first two divisions of that freshman session, when newly-rich MPs could be expected to be razor sharp in their keenness to earn that $18,000 plus freshly stepped-up pension and other assorted fringe benefits, 143 of them didn't bother to vote.

Those were the two divisions of the Commons on the old age pension increases that had been delayed until after they had enjoyed their two-month summer holiday.

The first of those two September divisions opening the pre-Christmas session was to backdate the old age pension increase to April 8, the day, co-incidentally, of the parliamentary pay boost.

But only 201 of the 265 MPs voted. The other and missing 64 were either absent, ducked, paired in a vote trade, or just didn't care enough to be in the Commons.

On the second division—to pay the pension at 65 instead of 70—only 186 voted. So, that time, 79 weren't there. In what the prime minister had told them was their "full-time occupation," to stand up and be counted on the matter of an increase for old age pensioners that was but a negligible fraction of the increase they had voted for themselves.

Well, that was the start of the pre-Christmas session.

Since then, the well-paid MPs have been home again, and presumably hearing from the taxpayers about the great attention they might be expected to pay to the public business in recognition of their new gilt-edged pay package which, with its tax-free feature, could be worth a cool $24,000 rather than the modest $18,000.

And now they are back at work in the post-Christmas and pre-Easter session.

So how are they doing?

Better.

In fact, you have to look hard to notice the slight improvement.

In the first two divisions of the new session—they were on the government's tax relief program—outlined in the Throne Speech—there were still 123 MPs who, by their absence, displayed an apparent unwillingness to accept the prime minister's proposition that at $18,000 plus, theirs was a "full-time occupation."

British Scientists

The Diggers of Diamonds

By CASSANDRA from London

BRITAIN invents. America exploits. Penicillin was first observed in 1928 by Alexander Fleming. Ten years later the science of antibiotics was in full blast and nowhere more fully pursued than in the United States where billions of dollars were made in their exploitation.

Radar was the brain child of Sir Robert Watson-Watt. He discovered and perfected the system of radio and electronic detection that had a major part in saving Great Britain from defeat in 1940 at the hands of the German air force. Radar has since been developed in the United States with enormous zeal—and at fantastic profit.

Both these British discoveries were life-savers.

But who did the ground work that led to the atomic bomb? The British... Lord Rutherford at the Cambridge Cavendish Laboratories in the early twenties.

Who hatched the deadly egg? Who delivered it? And who for ten years, as the result, was the undisputed military master of the world?

Why, the United States.

John Bell digs up the scientific diamonds. Uncle Sam polishes and sells them.

Our scientists in this country are scurvily treated both in the facilities that they are given to continue their work and the rewards that are paid to them. So they emigrate to the United States.

Who blames them? Not I. But Mr. Hogg, minister of science, under whose mouldering wing our best technological brains find no shelter, does.

He condemns them saying that "the time will come when those who have gone abroad will envy those who have stayed behind"—a remark that contrasts oddly with his earlier comment that science is a truly international force and that its exponents should be free to travel the world.

Mr. Hogg, who is connected with the loss of some of our best brains, then uses his emotional heart—and took up the mantle of patriotism. Patriotism as Dr. Johnson once observed, "is the last refuge of a scoundrel." Mr. Hogg is no scoundrel but he can at times be an almighty chump.

A young research worker wrote to Mr. Hogg pointing out some of his financial difficulties in connection with his gaining a PhD degree.

Back came Mr. Hogg fulminating that "whether you accept an appointment at an American University should depend on your preference as between serving your country or America."

This gratuitous insult might have been rephrased as to whether the student preferred working for that frivolous interlude in politics, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, and his super-patriotic acolytes like Mr. Hogg or whether he wanted to pursue science in a field where he could get on with the job and eat at the same time.

Mr. Hogg in his best and most admonitory mood then advised the young student that he was cashing in on Britain's superior social services (most of which the Tories resisted like murder) and reminded him that the United States standard of life was three times that of our own because of their over-careful behavior in two world wars.

So, almost in one breath, Mr. Hogg accuses the young student of being a renegade and the United States of being a nation addicted to undue caution in the field of battle.

I suggest that undergraduates might well be advised to take up the arts rather than the sciences while this belligerent hero is in power.

As a one-time writer of advertisements, I have always been a student of the highfalutin start of the text, which, alas, inevitably, has to end with trying to sell the cold prime minister has claimed it is.

Deputy NDP Leader Douglas Fisher, who perhaps comes as close as any non-cabinet MP to making the Commons a full-time job—even although he "moonlights" profitably as a political columnist in a dozen mass circulation papers across the country—is worried about the "image" of Parliament.

"This Parliament," he has written, "has reeled under a barrage of criticism, fostered mostly by the men who report Parliament... reflect the shaken confidence and reflex action of politicians to this criticism..."

Shaken perhaps, but not enough to stay on their supposed "full-time" jobs... not all of them, at any rate.

Beatles Better

I AM writing on behalf of the outraged teenagers of the city of Duncan. Outraged is a very mild word for what we feel about the article by Sheila Graham last Sunday.

The article was headed "She Even Outshone the Beatles." That is an A-1 lie! She can't even sing. The only thing she's got that the Beatles haven't is the body. I'm referring to that awful singer, Mital Gaynor.

She and Marilyn Munroe would have made a good team, neither of them could sing! As far as I'm concerned the Beatles were the main attraction of the Ed Sullivan Show. Maybe as far as Sheila Graham can see Mital can sing but not according to the other 99 per cent of the population!

(MISS) LYNN STANLEY, Box 1028, Duncan. P.S.: I hope that this doesn't happen again.

Phone Costs

I read the Bell Telephone had a profit of $1,575,358,000 in 1963, the fifth consecutive year the profits have been above one and a half billion. No wonder we in Sooke have to pay 25 cents for a three-minute call to Victoria, and a ribbon development all the way.

I think it is time the citizens demand a takeover of these monopolies. How can outlying districts expect business enterprise on the Island, when we not only have a $14 toll per person with car, but also an expensive phone call to the mainland. Very attractive for business!

We pay our legislators extremely well for not protecting our interests. I recommend Mr. Bennett take a stand and save millions of dollars for B.C. instead of letting them slip over the border.

PHYLLIS JOHNSON, Milne's Landing.

Old-Time Dances

Many people were disappointed at the cancellation of the old-time dance last week at the Victoria Ballroom—those who attended the two previous dances, and more who were arranging to come following the glowing reports of the delightful music.

It is a long-felt need to have an old-time dance in the city on a Saturday night, as in the old days, when they ran successfully for a number of years. Many, many people are anxious to resume their nostalgic acquaintances with the old building, their old friends (and new ones) and genuine old-time dancing right here in the city.

What a wonderful idea of the Colonist to publish, for identification, places of historic interest. It is tending to both young and old seeking for these and other evidences of past history.

Willful Blindness

By MARQUE CHILDS

THE incurable optimism of the American temperament has helped to move mountains and make the desert bloom. But also at times it results in a form of willful blindness so that dangers and defects are conveniently out of sight.

With no vice-president the question of presidential succession and what happens on the disability of a president is of paramount importance. Yet from all indications the public attitude is one of yawning apathy or indifference, although the Senate Judiciary committee is holding extensive hearings and at least 200 succession bills have been advanced.

President Johnson is telling visitors that nothing can be done until after the first of the year when a president and a vice-president will be inaugurated. You wouldn't get 40 votes in the House to change the present law which makes Speaker John McCormack the No. 1 successor. At 72 with little or no experience in the executive branch of government, McCormack is said to take any suggestion of the need to change the law as a personal affront.

What is more, his powers as Speaker are such that even if a real desire existed among a majority in the House to alter the succession law it would probably be frustrated. The president, who understands these things and expresses them in earthy vernacular, says that a member can't even visit the men's room without the Speaker's approval.

But between now and the date of the next inauguration in January a cloud of uncertainty casts doubts on the stability and the continuity of executive authority. And this is at a moment when fantastic power has been invested in the president and the president alone. That is the power to respond to a nuclear attack on the United States by pressing the annihilation button.

The proposal put forward by Sen. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.) deserves more consideration than it has received. He recommended a bill to create a commission on presidential election and succession to be made up of 12 eminent citizens, six from public life and six from private life. This would dramatize and underscore for the country the urgent need to act lest another calamity present the U.S. with an insoluble riddle of authority hopelessly tangled.

Monroney and others believe one solution for the dangerous months ahead is to adopt on a temporary basis the proposal of the American Bar Association. This would permit the president to submit to Congress for confirmation by Senate and House a proposed vice-president, who, if confirmed, would serve in that office until the January inauguration. Then with duly elected president and vice-president in office the commission would put forward a long-range solution requiring an amendment to the Constitution to be thoroughly debated in Congress.

President Johnson's tendency to run up and down fences—to the consternation of the Secret Service, according to reports—diminishes some of his staunchest admirers and supporters. They recognize that the president wants to show he is unafraid. He believes this is the good old-fashioned American way to win friends and influence.

"But if he starts like this now," one of the admirers said, "imagine what it will be like in the campaign. If he encourages big crowds to push in there will be no security at all."

Many legislators are leaning for the long pull, to the two-vice-presidents solution. Surely the continuity of the government of the United States is as important as that of a big bank or industrial corporation, so the argument goes, and they wouldn't have less than 15 or 20 vice-presidents. A second vice-president would serve as the eyes and ears of the president and the first vice-president would be available to go on the kind of missions that took Richard Nixon and Lyndon Johnson around the world.

The obscurity darkening whole areas of the succession, particularly without a back-stopping vice-president, is appalling. If a presidential candidate were to die or be incapacitated, say a week or 10 days before the election, no formal machinery exists to choose a substitute. Even more disturbing is the fact that if a president-elect were to die between election day and inauguration the electoral college is not bound to elect the vice-president who was chosen with him by the voters. Presumably that ancient contraption made up of nonentities would do that. But they would not be bound to and the pulling and hauling surrounding their choice would keep the country in unhappy suspense.

For that matter, only an informal agreement between President Johnson and Speaker McCormack covers the grey area of presidential disability. It's time, in the campaign cliché, for a change.

Greeks Seek to 'Use' UN Force, Says Turk

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—A Turkish-Cypriot leader warned Friday that Greek-Cypriots will try to use the planned United Nations Cyprus force to do "what they could not do themselves" disarm the Turkish community.

Rauf Denktaş, unofficial Turkish-Cypriot representative to the Security Council meetings that authorized the force, also expressed pleasure that Canada had been asked to join it.

CANADA CIVILIZED

In an interview he described Canada as "an extremely civilized country which has a sense of justice and which can't be misled into taking unjust action against us."

"They (the Canadians) will use their judgment before taking action," he said.

"If we are looking for security and desire a police force to maintain it, all that is looked for in a police force—impartiality and so forth—we see in the Canadians."

Canada has not yet decided whether to contribute to the force.

Denktash said the object of the force "is to keep the two sides from killing each other" while a UN mediator has a chance to try for political settlement.

Names in the News

U.K.'s Top Witch Young, Very Rich

LONDON, March 6 (UPI)—Mrs. Monique Marie Wilson, a slim, black-haired young mother has become Britain's new "Queen of Witches." With the title went nearly $70,000, an eerie 450-year-old "witches' cottage" on the Isle of Man—and a broomstick. She was the main beneficiary of the will of Dr. Gerald Brown-Gardner, 80-year-old leader of Britain's witches who died last month.

HOLLYWOOD—Comedienne Lucille Ball changed her mind and signed a new three-year contract to continue her weekly CBS show.

MOSCOW—British businessman Greville Wynne, who is serving an eight-year term for espionage, had his first reunion with his wife, Sheila, since his trial last May. Mrs. Wynne arrived from London Monday.

ADELAIDE, Australia—Three Prince Rupert, B.C., residents, Dr. E. G. Large, his wife Betty and Mrs. Vera Roberts were reported in satisfactory condition in Royal Adelaide Hospital after a Feb. 11 head-on car crash. Mrs. Roberts' husband, Charles, and Adelaide stockman, Leonard Bullock, 51, were killed in the crash.

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—A private detective testified that actor Gary Merrill may have caroused at night but spent his days in father-son activities with his 12-year-old son. Merrill's former wife, actress Bette Davis, had asked that Merrill's rights to visit their son be withdrawn.

BOSTON—Ecuadorian sailor Julio Luna, 28, was flown here for treatment of a gangrene infection in a hand that was grafted onto his body from a dead man. He was reported resting comfortably at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

WASHINGTON—Army surgeons removed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's gall bladder and said they found no evidence of any cancer.

MONTREAL—Sessions Judge Emile Trottier set March 12 as date for judgment on whether to send Hal Banks, president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), to trial for conspiracy to commit assault.

IWA Voices Concern Over Strike

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP)—An official of the International Woodworkers of America says a strike at the northern Canadian Forest Industries Ltd. planing mill here is attracting widespread and unfavorable attention in British Columbia.

Jack Holst, regional second vice-president of the IWA, said B.C. lumber workers are perturbed about sub-standard wages in the Alberta lumber industry, claiming low-wage production prevents unfair competition for B.C. lumber.

Forty-eight planing mill employees walked off the job Aug. 7, 1963 to back up higher wage demands and other benefits.

Keith Johnson, financial secretary of IWA Local 1-207 said Friday about half the men are still on strike. They are seeking a 25-cent increase in the current wage of $1.40 an hour.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, widow of the U.S. president, left a gross estate of $277,294, a New York state tax appraisal shows.

SANTA MONICA—Producer Sid Luft said his estranged wife, singer Judy Garland, should be denied custody of their two children Lorna, 10, and Joseph, 8, because she's an emotionally disturbed and unbalanced person. He charged in an affidavit Miss Garland has attempted suicide more than 20 times.

VANCOUVER—Convict Tommy Steele, 21, who escaped Feb. 24 from a hospital in Vancouver where he was recovering from an operation, was picked up by the U.S. border patrol at Blaine, Wash.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Teamsters president James R. Hoffa will be sentenced next Thursday as a result of his conviction on a charge that he tried to fix a federal court jury.

PENDLETON, Ind.—Harold Stoup was glad to have won the fourth-prize typewriter in the annual Writer's Digest contest but he had his heart set on the first-prize 10-day trip to New York. Stoup is serving a 1 to 10-year term for armed robbery in the Indiana Reformatory.

LOS ANGELES—Camille Dardanne, 60, made arrangements for his own funeral and then killed himself with a 38-calibre revolver.

BOGNOR REGIS, England—Entrants in the annual chess congress here include A. Learner and A. Champion.

REGINA—Dr. M. C. Stumacher of Regina is to ask the Saskatchewan court of appeal to quash his committal for trial on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public. The application will be heard at the regular sittings of the court, which open March 17.

NEW YORK—Former vice-president Richard Nixon said he is ready to accept the Republican Party nomination for the same post again.

LONDON—Randolph Churchill, 52, son of Britain's wartime prime minister, is in Brompton Hospital for an exploratory operation on his left lung.

FORT WORTH—The grave site of Lee Oswald, still is under 24-hour guard. Police Chief Cate Hightower said the guard will be maintained until after the Warren commission completes its investigation of President Kennedy's death.

LONDON—Hospital chaplain Tadeusz Kurczewski was fined $36 and prohibited from driving for a year for drunken driving. He left the court, got into his car and drove it away. Minutes later he was back in the same court on charges of driving while disqualified. "I didn't know what to do with the car," said the chaplain.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—Two juveniles were in custody on suspicion of having committed 25 burglaries. Among the loot was the nameplate which once adorned the door leading to the office of Police Chief Leo Robb.

Reindeer Rustlers

TRONSOE (Reuters)—Finnish reindeer rustlers operating on snow scooters are suspected of stealing 300 reindeer from Laplanders in northern Norway, police reported Wednesday.

By ARTHUR EVERETT

DALLAS (AP)—A police sergeant testified Friday that Jack Ruby admitted plotting for two days to kill Lee Harvey Oswald because "I just want the world to know that Jews have guts."

"This was the reason he gave for shooting Oswald," declared the witness. And on that dramatic note, the state rested its murder case against Ruby. It still has some rebuttal witnesses on tap if needed.

While defence lawyers shouted objections and vain demands for a mistrial, the state of Texas thus for the first time established a possible motive behind Ruby's Nov. 24 slaying of Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

And in the same few seconds, the state sought to impress on a jury of four women and eight men who are trying the 32-year-old Ruby for his life that Oswald's slaying was thoroughly premeditated.

The trial reached an incredible peak of tension after District Attorney Henry M. Wade led police Sgt. P. T. Dean quietly through a series of important questions. They dealt with the commotion in the basement of Dallas police headquarters after Ruby stepped from a crowd and gunned down Oswald with a single bullet.

RUBY STRIPPED
Dean then testified that he went to the fifth floor of police headquarters 10 to 15 minutes after the shooting. Ruby was held captive there, stripped of his undershorts. Wade wanted to know whether there was any conversation there. Dean said there had been.

VOKE OBJECTIONS
The three defence lawyers—Melvin Belli, Joe Tonahill and Phil Burleson—jumped to their feet with objections. Judge Joe B. Brown overruled them, and Wade continued:

"Tell the jury what else you recall the defendant, Jack Ruby, telling you on that occasion?"

More defence objections rang through a hushed, expectant courtroom. Spectators seemed aware of the climax in the making. Again Judge Brown overruled the defence. Dean answered in an even voice:

"He said something to the effect that he thought about this two nights prior when he had seen Lee Harvey Oswald on the showup stand."

The reference was to Ruby's presence the Friday night of Kennedy's assassination when the defendant slipped in among newspaper men for a face-to-face confrontation with the 24-year-old Oswald.

Belli was objecting again, as Dean continued:

"He (Ruby) said he believed in the due process of law, but he was so torn up about this situation, his sister having just gotten out of the hospital and this man having killed the president and (police) officer (J. D.) Tippit, he knew the outcome of the trial would be the death penalty and he saw no reason for Mrs. Kennedy being brought back to Dallas for the trial."

SHOUT IN UNISON
"We object, your honor, we object," the defence lawyers roared in unison. Judge Brown again overruled them.

Wade continued quietly: "On the Friday night, what are the facts with reference to what he decided to do when he saw the sarcastic sneer on Oswald's face?"

Nikita Hits Passports

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today criticized the internal passport which millions of Russians must carry as police state documents introduced by Josef Stalin.

The Soviet premier proposed instead that they be changed to "labor passports"—an idea first advanced by founding father Lenin in 1919.

Khrushchev's proposal was seen by western observers as another move in removing authoritarian aspects of Stalin's rule and liberalizing the communist regime.

World Must Know 'Jews Have Guts'

More defence protests, but Dean was allowed to answer:

"He said when he noticed the sarcastic sneer on Oswald's face, that's when he first thought that if he got the chance he would kill him and would also show the world that Jews do have guts."

DEFENCE OPENS

In an amazing contrast to the state's last witness, the opening witness for the defence was Karen Lynn Bennett, a blonde, 18-year-old strip teaser, who danced for Ruby under the stage name of Little Lynn.

The gist of Little Lynn's testimony was that she telephoned Ruby Saturday, the day after Kennedy was assassinated, to ask why his Carousel Club was closed.

'JACK ANGRY'

"Jack was very angry with me for calling. He said he closed the club Friday because of the president's death. He was very upset. He said, 'Don't you give a damn about the president? Don't you know the president is dead? I don't know if I'll ever open the club again,'" she testified he said.

Car Runs Into Cemetery

A car which sped out of control onto Quadra Street early yesterday ended up in the Pioneer Square cemetery.

Police said the new car went out of control, jumped the curb on the east side of Quadra, ran into the cemetery and bowled over a large rock which is a historic marker.

The rock, about four feet by four feet by five feet, was rolled over on its side as the car rolled over it, then slid down on its side.

Police said the driver of the car was William S. Wyle, 450 Dallas. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for facial cuts and later released.

Cat Here Ahead Of Family

Tom, the black-and-white travelling tomcat who arrived in Victoria ahead of his family, suffered no injuries on his sideways trip from Calgary, SPCA officials said last night.

The family of S. Dawdy thought they'd seen the last of Tom when they were ready to leave their home in Calgary for a new home in Victoria. He disappeared just as they were about to leave.

But when the family furniture arrived in town, SPCA Inspector Oona Vennberg was called in by the movers, and Tom was found inside the family davenport.

"He wasn't harmed at all—and the family must have had quite a surprise when they arrived and found him already here," said Inspector Vennberg.

Prankster Painter

A prankster armed with a spray bomb painted his way along Quadra Street Tuesday night, leaving his mark on signs, poles, cars and windows.

The name Zeke was painted across a service station window, and two licence plates were blacked out with paint. The sprayer also hit power poles and signs before his ammunition ran out.

Teacher Tells of U.S. Plan

'What's My Line' Pupil Goal

A U.S. educator has described here how teenagers in his area helped determine their own suitability in various vocations, while still in high school.

Cedric Boeseke, director of Santa Barbara, Calif., schools work experience program, was addressing about 300 Victoria teachers at their convention. He told of the three-part program, begun several years ago in Santa Barbara County, with assistance from a private foundation.

It consists of:

- Exploratory work experience, where students work part-time in business or industry without pay, but with full school supervision and credits.

- General work experience education, with students working part-time, again under supervision and with full credits, but being paid for their working time.

- Vocational work experience, allowing the student to work during school hours or after school in the vocation which he intends to enter. He is given school credit and pay for time worked.

BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

Mr. Boeseke said this allowed education officials to extend the classroom out into the community, and permitted students to find out "before it was too late" if they were suited to certain jobs.

He said before another special program was begun, school dropouts in Santa Barbara averaged about 25 per cent, but with the new system, they now averaged about six per cent.

Santa Barbara schools, he said, encouraged students contemplating quitting school to work part time and continue to take as many courses as possible toward completion of high school.

Most of them do eventually finish, he said.

Mr. Boeseke said such special programs were becoming more and more necessary these days in order to allow a student to develop some special skill to rely on in the competitive field of industry.

Quebec Flood Recedes

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—The flooding St. Francis River began receding Friday after flooding streets and basements and forcing 100 persons to evacuate their homes.

With favorable weather conditions, the water was expected to continue dropping.

Fed by melting snow and driving rain and jammed with newly broken ice, the St. Francis jumped its banks last Thursday night and rose to more than 25 feet, dropping again to 20 feet Friday morning.

Flood level is 19 feet. The normal height for this time of year is 14 to 16 feet.

New Hand Sonar

Crabs Take Cover
Navy Can See You

Fresh crab, anyone?

Divers of the Royal Canadian Navy can quickly supply one from the murky bottom of any harbor with their new hand-held sonar.

Of course, crab fishing is not its purpose but the new underwater search apparatus, when in the hands of an expert, can actually detect the scurrying crustaceans under ink-black water conditions.

Navy scuba divers, swimming in pairs, have found the U.S.-developed hand sonar an effective tool in the search for underwater objects, bethey propeller, mines or even a wrench accidentally dropped overboard.

The sonar's main advantage is that recovery can be made quickly and easily in cold or muddy water. The apparatus has slightly positive buoyancy so swimming with it is not difficult.

The complete unit resembles a small cooking kettle with handles on each side just like a cartoonist would draw for a cannibal-missionary scene. Two sets of earphones are attached, so walk softly, you crabs.

Student
Guides
Wanted

Volunteers from among the University of Victoria's summer course students will be able to supplement their spending cash beginning in June this year — by becoming tourist guides.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will be wanting about six students — probably three boys, three girls — to take visitors around the city by car and direct them to places of interest in their new tourist guide service for the summer, instituted in cooperation with Victoria Visitors' Bureau.

"They will be paid on a flat rate basis of about $1.50 per hour plus tips," said Jaycee economic affairs boss Howie Paterson yesterday.

One-Man Lobby Finds:

Peterson Won't Tailor
Act to Suit Union

The tailors' union one-man lobby says that he is dissatisfied with the reception he got from Labor Minister Peterson yesterday and that a New Democratic MLA is to raise the tailors' cause in the legislature.

Chris Trower, B.C. representative for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, with which the Journeymen Tailors' Union is affiliated, returned to Vancouver yesterday after spending several days in Victoria speaking to MLAs in a campaign for a change in the B.C. Labor Relations Act.

ONE-MAN UNIT

The tailors' union, which is undertaking an organization drive among Vancouver and Victoria tailors and bushmen (bushmen = alterations) wants the act changed to permit a union to be certified for a bargaining unit consisting of one employee.

The union, Mr. Trower said, wants to be able to sign up tailors in one-man shops attached to clothing stores.

APPRENTICES

When enough tailors are signed by the union under a standard contract, Mr. Trower said, the union would seek to make it possible to apprentice young men to the unions. At present, Mr. Trower said, there are no young men entering the trade, except some who learned the trade in other countries.

After a meeting with the labor minister yesterday, Mr. Trower reported the minister gave him a sympathetic hearing, expressed concern about conditions in the trade and said he would be prepared to discuss the matter with the government's apprentice branch.

Break-ins
Yield
$266 Loot

Cash and goods valued at about $266 were stolen in three separate break-ins overnight Thursday, city police said yesterday.

Hardest hit was Walter Lissetz, 501 Richmond, who reported a wallet containing $164 and a radio valued at $24 stolen from his home when thieves entered through a basement window.

Mrs. Kenneth A. Alexander, 1382 Craigdarroch, reported $2.50 in change stolen when a thief came in through an unlocked door.

W. R. Burgess, 1621 Fernwood, reported $3.65 taken from his unlocked home.

A thief stole a camera valued at $70 from a display cabinet in a store in the Mayfair Shopping Centre sometime Thursday.

But Mr. Trower said the minister told him the government was not prepared to amend the labor act. The minister, Mr. Trower said, offered no arguments other than that no other Canadian province allows a one-employee bargaining unit and that the suggested change would necessitate others throughout the act.

Mr. Trower said: "We are not satisfied with this answer and I have asked Rae Eddie, NDP MLA for New Westminster, to introduce the amendment we are suggesting to the House. He has agreed to do so."

"In the meantime, we will take the minister of labor up on his offer to seek a solution to the problem through the apprenticeship board."

TCA Profit-Maker Again After Three-Year Loss

By HARRY YOUNG
Columnist Business Editor

After showing a deficit of over $12,000,000 in its three previous years, Trans-Canada Air Lines burst back into profit-making during 1963.

The net profit of $527,575 was small, but it was a distinct improvement on the $3,540,625 loss of 1962, and it also marked the first time since TCA became totally jet or turbo-prop propelled that the line managed to wriggle out of the red.

Tabling the TCA results in the Commons, G. R. McGregor, president, said higher revenue yields per passenger mile, a modest increase in volume of scheduled traffic, expanded Atlantic charter business and unit-cost reduction by extended use of DC-8 aircraft, had been responsible for the better picture presented by the national line.

The current forecast of traffic and reduction of unit-operating cost indicated that in 1964 TCA would again make a profit, said Mr. McGregor.

WESTCOAST GOES AHEAD

Despite the fact that the B.C. government has reaffirmed that Gas Trunk of B.C. has the franchise to operate the new natural gas pipe line from the Fort Nelson area to Chetwynd, Westcoast Transmission appears to be going ahead anyway with the building of the line.

The right-of-way is reported to be cleared and a start made on laying the pipe.

Most of the Gas Trunk of B.C. shares are now held by Westcoast Transmission. Less than 20 per cent are still in other hands.

OFFER EXTENDED

Anties Imperial Ltd. has extended to March 18 its offer to purchase the outstanding shares of John Wood Company. It now holds 85 per cent of Wood stock.

SALES BIG: PROFITS WEE

Vendomatic Services, whose automatic machines serve food and drinks across Canada, had sales of $10,595,000 in 1963, but the net profit from this huge turnover was only $35,708. Still it was better than in 1962 when sales of $17,017,000 produced a net loss of $134,825.

Cash flow in 1963 was $405,173 (34 cents a share) against $167,385 (14 cents) in the previous year.

GAS SHARES OFFERED

A secondary offering of Consumers Gas shares is being made at $11½ net. The vendor's name has not been disclosed, but 80,000 shares are involved.

NEW 1963-64 HIGH

The yield on the government's 91-day treasury bills this week rose to a 14-month high at 3.90 per cent. This was an increase of .02 per cent on the previous week's rate.

It was last higher on Jan. 3, 1963, when it was 3.94. Since then it dropped to a low of 3.19 last June and has been climbing slowly during the past few months.

The yield on the treasury bills reflects the current state of the short term money market.

PRESTIGE AWARD

A Victoria firm, Nu-Way Cleaners Ltd., has been given a prestige award by the National Institute of Drycleaning at its annual convention in Chicago. It is the third successive year in which Nu-Way has figured among the Institute's premier awards.

COPPER PRICES UP

Higher prices for copper and brass pipes and tubes have been called for the second time this year by leading U.S. fabricators.

In February prices were raised by 4 per cent, and this week another increase of 5 per cent has been made.

The rise is equivalent to about 4½ cents in the price per pound of copper.

Loading the price hike is Cerro Copper and Brass Corp., a division of Cerro Corp., a leading copper producer.

TAKEN NEW POST

A newly-created post, that of vice-president international affairs for Canadian Pacific Airlines, is to be filled by H. Donald Cameron, of Vancouver.

He was formerly executive assistant to the president of the line and will have his new headquarters at Windsor Station, Montreal.

Bill 67 Noise, Fireworks Controls in Big Overhaul of Municipal Act—but Nothing on a Sunday

By JACK FRY

The Municipal Act, which regulates all cities and municipalities in B.C. expect the city of Vancouver will be given a major overhaul this year.

Sweeping amendments ranging from Saturday elections to noise control regulations are contained in Bill 67 which was introduced and given first reading in the legislature yesterday.

Vancouver is exempt from the act because it operates under its own charter.

Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black, who brought in the bill, said outside the House that many of the amendments were recommended by the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

Theo Adams of New Westminster, executive director of the UBCM, told newsmen that "by and large all the amendments are for better administration of municipal governments."

Missing from the bill is any reference to Sunday sports and entertainment.

Mr. Adams said "the UBCM will be very disappointed that Sunday sports was not included, and probably will continue to press for municipal authority in this field."

Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith, who some time ago

said he would introduce a bill for local option on Sunday sports, said yesterday he will introduce such an amendment for Bill 67.

Bill 67 also outlines what type of business operations are exempt from municipal business licenses, and is expected to eliminate future disputes such as cases where Victoria businessmen objected recently to having to obtain licenses in Saanich to operate in that municipality.

After the bill is passed in the legislature, civic officials throughout Greater Victoria who are now adjusted to the last change of the Municipal Act in 1962, will have to burn the midnight oil to catch up on hundreds of small technical matters.

Municipal Affairs Minister Black said yesterday he hopes that in future the act will have to be amended only "once every two or three years." In the past, amendments were brought in on almost an annual basis.

Major changes proposed by the bill:

● Civic elections will be held on Saturday of the week following candidates' nomination day, which is the last Monday in November. In the past, elections were held on Thursday of the week following nomination day.

● Councils will have the power to "regulate or prohibit" anything within the municipal boundary which causes noise that disturbs "the quiet, peace, rest, enjoyment, comfort or convenience of the neighborhood."

Teeth for enforcement of noise control are contained in the fact that offenders can be fined or imprisoned or both. There is no specific maximum penalty.

● Councils can issue permits for the use of fireworks and may specify conditions under which the fireworks will be allowed.

● Councils will have the authority to require fencing of private swimming pools and other types of pools.

● Professional people, including doctors, lawyers, private detectives and surveyors are not required to hold business licenses outside of the area where their offices are located.

Although the wording of this section states that a professional person is exempt "unless he regularly and generally carries on business in the municipality," a municipal affairs department spokesman said the person is considered exempt "unless he has an office in the municipality."

● Changes will be made in municipal borrowing. Proposed borrowing will have to be approved first by the inspector of municipalities, six per cent will be the maximum interest rate allowed for money borrowed, and temporary financing can be arranged between passage of money bylaws and sale of debentures.

Change Reaction Mixed

Amendments to the Municipal Act, planned for this year, met with mixed feelings from civic leaders on the lower island.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell welcomed the amendment dealing with noise control.

He said that there is a problem here in the residential areas, which are often disturbed at night by trucks, and his committee has received many complaints.

DOWNTOWN He said also that merchants have complained about trucks making noise on Government Street and said the amendment would be helpful in permitting council to regulate.

M. F. Hunter, returning officer, wasn't pleased about the changing of municipal election day from Thursday to Saturday.

"Oh, no!" was his reaction.

GOING UP ACT He said Victoria pioneered the Thursday election and even gave up its private act when the government indicated that there would be changes to have all municipal elections on the same day.

"The government should have informed us so we could have kept the private act," Mr. Hunter said.

WELCOMED

Reeve Stanley Murphy of Saanich, on the other hand, welcomed Saturday. "We've been working for that for years," he said. "If this applies to district municipalities, it's a good move, I think."

He welcomed the legislation which would permit municipalities to control fencing of swimming pools and other pools on private property.

GOOD TO HAVE

He said that it was no problem at present, but as pools become more common it would be good to have the power to insist that they be fenced.

Regarding the power to issue permits for fireworks and the power to specify conditions under which they may be used, Reeve Murphy said that Saanich had some control now. The municipality also has power to regulate noise under its nuisance bylaw.

Merchants Plan Daff Parley

Selling of miniature plastic daffodils through Victoria stores will be discussed at a brief meeting of the retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the chamber's board room at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Budget Paring Time Here

By IAN STREET

Aldermen begin their annual tussle with the city's $10,000,000-plus current budget at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

This is only the preliminary to the final deliberations at which the 1964 mill-rate will be set sometime in mid-April.

ITEM BY ITEM

On Monday the public works group of committees begin an item-by-item study of estimates submitted by the heads of civic departments. The meetings are scheduled for morning and afternoon.

FINANCE GROUP

The finance group begins its cutting of departmental estimates Tuesday. The all-day session will break off at 3:30 p.m. to allow the mayor and finance chairman to attend the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee.

The schedule hasn't been fixed for the rest of the week, but either finance or public works will continue Wednesday with the other group taking Thursday.

CRASH PROGRAM

City manager Dennis Young said a "crash program" will be mounted this year to get the preliminary budget cutting over within the period of one week. Night sessions will be resorted to, if necessary.

The provisional budget, required by law at the beginning of each year, amounted to $10,000,000 for 1964. The city's 1963 budget was $10,000,000.

MEANINGLESS

Since council isn't required to stick by any part of the provisional budget it becomes virtually meaningless.

The increase it contained this year—up around $300,000 from the 1963 final budget—was mainly to cover additional salary requests by employees.

TWO DISPUTES SETTLED

However, with the civic inside and outside workers settled for a 3.5 per cent increase and firemen for 2.5 per cent, nothing like this amount will be required for salaries. Only police salaries remain unsettled.

Two unknown factors will influence budget deliberations, particularly in final stages. The first is a capital budget program, which is scheduled to be presented to council within a couple of weeks; the second is school taxes, fixed by provincial order in mid-April.

Trip Sunday

A trip to Port Alberni is planned for Sunday by the Outdoor and So-Ed Club of the YM-YWCA. Members of the club, which is open to people between the ages of 18 and 40, will meet outside the YWCA at 8 a.m.

Wilkinson Fugitive Still Eludes Police

Saanich police said yesterday they have no new clues on the whereabouts of Richard Rodriguez, who escaped from the Wilkinson Road jail last Friday.

Rodriguez, who was serving a term for breaking and entering, disappeared in company with Frank Carlow, who gave himself up to police the following day.

It is now feared Rodriguez

Orphans Enjoy Company

Tiny grey and black lamb, found all alone on Metchoan Road Friday, is making new friends (like Tiger, above) at SPCA Shelter, where workers are bottle-feeding and keeping him warm. Finders were Neil Sinclair, 16, 3309 Exeter; Lori Miller, 17, 1800 Adams; Ann Styles, 16, 1770 Beach; Brian Blackburn, 17, 1508 Hampshire.—(Robin Clarke.)

Voters Hold Fate Of Schools Today

Saanich School District 63 ratepayers have a choice of 11 polling stations at which to cast their ballots on School Referendum No. 8 today.

Voters will be asked to approve expenditure of $793,000 for 23 classrooms, administration areas and a number of sites.

Ballots can be cast from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Beaver Lake, Brentwood, Cordova Bay, Deep Cove, Keating, McTavish Road, Prospect Lake, Saanich, Saanich, Saanich and Royal Oak schools, and the school board office at Sidney.

A voters' list will be displayed at each polling station.

Centre Proposed

Vaccination of Horses Urged Against Sleeping Sickness

Horse-owner Mrs. W. F. Pitt, 3773 Duke Road, Albert Head, wants all other Victoria horse-owners to join her in having their horses vaccinated against sleeping sickness.

"The department of agriculture livestock branch is urging people to have horses vaccinated before the end of April," Mrs. Pitt said yesterday.

"A number of years ago there was a serious outbreak in Alberta and there are so many horses brought to Vancouver Island from the mainland there is a possibility of it happening here."

SET UP CENTRE

Mrs. Pitt and a friend, Mrs. R. W. Jones, 3857 Duke, are going to set up a vaccination centre.

"We are doing this as horse-owners and mothers of children," said Mrs. Pitt. "It's not so much what happens to the horses when they get the virus; it's the fact that it is contagious for humans."

Cougar Hunt Today

The hunt for a cougar, spotted near Esquimalt Lagoon yesterday afternoon, will be resumed today.

Cotwood RCMP passed the report on to the B.C. game department and cougar hunter James Paton and his dogs joined in the search, along with three RCMP constables and Sgt. Robert Rogers, in the area outside Halley Memorial Gardens, and along Lagoon Road.

"There were plenty of coons and a couple of ginger cats but the dogs didn't pick up any cougar scent," Mr. Paton said.

In Gorge By End of June

Paddles A-Chunkin'

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Commercial operation of stern-wheel tourist craft in the Gorge is scheduled to begin around the end of May, members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce transportation and harbor group were told yesterday.

Capt. George Veres, managing director of McKay-Cormack which is building the two 35-passenger craft, said the first is to be ready for sea trials around the end of April or the beginning of May.

Capt. Veres is also a director of Yukon Queen Tours which is to operate the ships—to be 35 feet long not counting another eight feet of stern paddle wheel.

Russell Simpson is general manager of Yukon Queen Tours.

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS?

Members of the transportation and harbor group expressed concern yesterday about whether traffic problems will not be created in the harbor if three separate commercial groups operate water tours from there.

H. J. (Bud) Sims already operates a tour boat from the Inner Harbor and the Interests developing the commercial Sherwood Forest recreation park on the Gorge have asked Victoria city council for permission to operate Viking-style craft from the harbor beginning in the summer of 1965.

SEES TROUBLE

Herbert Barnes, of B.C. Forest Products, said if, as Capt. Veres said is possible, the stern-wheelers operate a half-hourly service traffic problems are to be anticipated with industrial craft and especially with log booms.

And a CNR executive said difficulties could be created for the CNR if it is necessary for the CNR railway bridge at the Selkirk Water to be raised to let the stern-wheelers through.

Capt. Veres said he understands the craft are to be constructed so that, under summer tide conditions, they will clear the bridge. He said plans have already been made so that if one of the stern-wheelers encounters a traffic obstruction, the tourist craft can immediately be diverted to an alternate tour route.

Capt. Ron Newell, Victoria harbormaster, said representatives of the Yukon Queen Tours have already assured him that "they can live with the industry."

DOCK PROPOSALS

Capt. Veres outlined three proposals for where the dock for the Yukon Queen craft could be located in the Inner Harbor.

First Trap Shoot

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association will hold its first trap shoot of the season at Goldstream at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Politicians Praise Veteran Clerk

Politicians paid tribute in the legislature yesterday to E. K. DeBeck, clerk of the legislative assembly, who is 81 years old today.

Premier Bennett, in wishing a happy birthday to Mr. DeBeck, told the House, "Years are not the only judge of a man's ability ... it is the spirit of a man that counts."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said, "He is a most outstanding adjunct to this House."

Liberal Leader Ray Ferrault said, "He has been an invaluable help to all in the House, including our five Liberals."

Mr. DeBeck was not in the House when the tributes were paid at the opening of yesterday's sitting.

Plastic Daffodil Praised By Grower of Real Thing

One of the most enthusiastic backers of the tiny plastic daffodils to be sold in connection with the Victoria Spring Flower Festival is the leading live daffodil grower in the Saanich Peninsula.

"I think it's a good way of promoting the festival," flower grower G. A. Vantreight said last night of the small daffodils which the chamber plans to sell to be worn in the buttonhole.

"I don't think it hurts my business at all. I think it's promoting it. It's going to keep people thinking of flowers."

Mr. Vantreight said the tiny plastic daffodils can be worn all day and in fact for the duration of the festival, while live daffodils would quickly wilt.

A tiny plastic daffodil in a buttonhole is "a lot neater and tidier than a live one."

IN CONTAINER

"The place for a live daffodil is in a vase or a container," he added, "I'd like to see a plastic daffodil in every lapel during the festival."

Bernard Cox of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce said recently that the miniature plastic daffodils are to be available at the beginning of next week.

But if plastic daffodils aren't causing Mr. Vantreight any concern, live ones are.

"The great thing I'm looking for is some warm weather."

He said some of the daffodils he was hoping to have by Easter now are three or four inches out of the ground, but others are up only about two inches.

"Another three weeks and it will be all over."

He said the demand for daffodils drops sharply after Easter. The slow, steady growth this year will make for high-quality daffodils, he said, but the big concern in the daffodil industry is whether the flowers will be grown soon enough.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

A good friend who owns a health clinic keeps telling me what numerous doctors have told me already, that the way to a healthy life and especially a healthy heart is exercise.

The experts agree that the inactive, sedentary life is hazardous as well as dull. One of his doctors is quoted as saying that President Eisenhower's heart attack would more likely have been fatal had he not exercised.

Exercise your heart. If it is to live it needs other benefits, because man is a lover. It needs beauty and truth, for man is a worshipper. It needs enthusiasm and challenges, for man is a creator and adventurer.

Exercise your heart. Life has a basic principle of overflowing abundance. "To them that hath shall be given." Life is made for bounty, filled with extras.

Exercise your heart by getting rid of old prejudices. That man of another race or another color may not be so bad a fellow after all. You may be missing a lot by not knowing him. Get acquainted with other religions.

Exercise your heart. A man who retired said that he had resolved never to do a useful thing again! Why sign your death warrant? The cure for resentment, the cure for evil thoughts, the cure for an inferiority complex, is to love others, live creatively, and forget yourself.

Exercise your heart in worship. Worship is the embrace of the worthy. Worship flings the door of life wide open to the presence of God.

Exercise your heart in thanksgiving. Why do people find it so easy to whine? Nothing would do their hearts more good than a real burst of praise and thanksgiving.

Exercise your heart by getting interested in other people. James Dean, the actor, said sadly, "I never had the courage to be tender, to relate myself to another human being."

Exercise your heart by getting interested in other people. James Dean, the actor, said sadly, "I never had the courage to be tender, to relate myself to another human being."

Simplicity and freshness are the key-words of this terylene batiste evening gown designed by Frances Stewart of Ottawa for the spring collection of the Association of Canadian Couturiers. The front of the gown is subtly draped, with fullness swept to the back where it falls in soft folds from a moderately low decollete. In pure white, the fabric is printed with sprays of spring flowers in delicate shades of maize and green.

Great White Fashion For Spring, Summer

MONTREAL (CP) — White creations, collectively called "great white fashion," receive special emphasis in eight Canadian couturiers' spring and summer fashions.

The styles presented in Montreal this week at the Association of Canadian Couturiers combined showings also featured what their designers called easy fitting, movement, planned designs, constructive seams and an up-dating of some 1950 trends.

Marie Antoinette, Frances Davies, Evelyn, Frances Stewart, Mario di Nardo, Rodolphe, Olivia and the Raoul - Jean Fourie houses all started their groupings on the white theme.

BRIDAL DRESSES
Marie Antoinette presented a short bridal dress of white arnel surah featuring appliques and re-embroidered fabric in a floral pattern on the skirt border, patterned after Madeira-type embroidery.

In her dress and jacket costume of white double-knit arnel, she covered the bodice with small white satin bows and centred each bow with a crystal drop. She pleated the fabric of a dress and coat costume of beige orlon and wool spongy crepe into wide vertical bands. She fastened the jacket of a navy cotton rainsuit with narrow stripes of the same fabric.

DASHES OF WHITE
Frances Davies added liberal dashes of white to her traditionally elegant clothes for additional impact. Her opening number was a dress and coat costume of white wool boucle. The coat was seven - eighth length and the dress was lightly shaped with brass buttons to mark the midriff.

Clubs

LEGION LA
Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 172, Royal Canadian Legion, will meet on March 9 at 8 p.m. in the Legion hall, 622 Admirals Road. The auxiliary will hold a coffee party in the Douglas room of the Hudson's Bay Company on March 12 from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

ALLIANCE FRANCAISE
On Monday, March 9, Mrs. Joseph A. Acheson will address a meeting of the Alliance Francaise at the Art Gallery at 3 p.m. She will speak on her trip to Japan and to Hong Kong.

GOLDEN AGE
James Bay Golden Age Club will meet on March 10 at 2 p.m. in the Niagara Street Hall.

She poured a white circle of white linen organza around the cowl neckline of an overblouse dress of grey plaid terylene and wool worsted.

SOPHISTICATES

Evelyn presented what she called "super sophisticates," including pleated terraced pyjamas of nylon georgette in the mandarin shade. Her white fashion was a heavy silk ottoman with the skirt above the ankle and topped by a chiffon lame blouse. The topcoat was tunic length and lightly shaped and lined in the same lame.

Frances Stewart narrowed the silhouette and lengthened suit jackets. Her white number was a narrow dress and coat costume of spongy white wool. The coat had welt seams at the front waistline and a high back yoke. The accompanying dress had a cutaway sleeve line with decorative seams repeating the curve.

Mario di Nardo featured clothes seemed to a new high inverted V shape under the bustline at the back yoke. His coats and suits were not fitted. His opening costume was a white wool suit with the inverted V also emphasized in his suit of beige arnel and cotton, which also featured split - in pockets placed low on the skirt.

YELLOW USED

Rodolphe used a white and yellow arnel sharkskin penguin coat to introduce his collection. The garment had a partial belt at hip level fastened to the coat by large pearl buttons. He used white again around the edges of a red arnel denim suit. The jacket was buttonless and covered a detailed blouse.

DOLL SILHOUETTE

Olivia maintained her "paper doll" silhouette of last season, keeping to the widened skirt line controlled in large godet flares at both sides, resulting in a triangular shape through out her collection.

Her white number was a belted suit of white honeycomb weave nylon stretch fabric which continued the triangular line, highlighted by slot seams and satin piping. Her evening suit of beige chiffon had a loose triangular jacket which tied at the neckline and opened over a full skirted dress.

DASHES OF BLUE

Raoul-Jean Fourie also featured white but tempered it with repeated dashes of blue. His white opening number was a collarless white arnel coat with a low waistline and a demi-belt. It covered a paisley printed overblouse and a skirt of blue and white arnel surah. His spring suits both featured an apron of fabric over a slim undershirt. The aprons were lightly shirred at the front waistline. His strapless evening dress of border printed chiffon changed color as the soft folds fell from the bodice to the floor.

Pantry Shower

Mrs. A. Anderson and Mrs. J. Barnes were co-hostesses at a pantry shower held at the home of the former in honor of their niece, Linda Olson. Corsages were presented to the bride-to-be and to the mothers of the bridal couple. Gifts were presented in a green and gold decorated laundry basket.

Guests included Mrs. D. Machan, Mrs. H. Terrillon, Mrs. A. Bennett, Mrs. E. Anderson, Mrs. A. Edmonds, Mrs. E. McLaren, Mrs. M. Crossman, Mrs. T. Healey, Mrs. N. Edmonds, Mrs. E. Oldhall, Mrs. J. ## Engineers Needed

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Gabriella Casonato, 24-year-old third-year engineering student at the University of Waterloo, would like to feel the elation of building bridges, dams or highways.

"But this type of thinking is not very realistic," she says, "because I'm a female and to the female active engineering work is limited."

Nevertheless, Gabe, as she has been nicknamed, is enjoying her position as the only girl among 1,036 engineering students.

"The rest of the class is wonderful. When I can't make classes they take notes for me and even invite me to their study. I haven't attended one yet, as I don't want to put a damper on their fun. You know what engineers are like. I promised the boys I would attend their stag in our final year, just for the fun of it."

The lecturers and professors here treat me just like another student. I get no special consideration just because I'm a girl, and don't want any."

Dr. Douglas Wright, dean of engineering says he would like to see more girls enter the field.

"In today's society there is a need for female engineers in Canada and I for one would urge any girl who has the academic qualifications to enter the field."

Miss Casonato keeps an eye on the lists of first-year students to see if there are any girls enrolled "but to date I haven't sighted any."

Miss Lentz Wins Oscar

Victoria Toastmistress Club No. 90 met recently with Mrs. J. J. Warr presiding. Toastmistress was Mrs. C. Brynjolfsson. Speakers were Mrs. D. L. Brown, Mrs. J. M. Spears, Mrs. C. C. Warren and Miss D. Lentz.

Mrs. J. R. Pipes was critic and Mrs. T. Grant general evaluator. They awarded the Oscar to Miss D. Lentz and the Spur to Mrs. D. L. Brown. Mrs. P. A. Peterson, acted as Topicmistress. The inspiration and the closing thought were given by Mrs. W. H. Davies and the vote of thanks by Mrs. E. Conrad.

Hat magic by Mrs. Mary Megaw will be featured at 11 a.m. at the spring coffee party being presented by the Cadboro Bay United Church Women in the church hall on Arbutus Drive, on March 11. Mrs. I. Pike will convene the annual affair, to be held from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon. Mrs.

M. Ketterer is co-convenor. There will be a home-bake stall and a nursery available for young children. Pictured here are committee members, at left, Mrs. Harold F. Alguire, Mrs. G. B. Olson and Mrs. F. W. Whitehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Frost Married at St. John's

Pink carnations banked the altar at St. John's Anglican Church last evening for the marriage of Karen Louise Marie Lamontagne and Mr. James Frank Frost.

Rev. Canon George Biddle performed the wedding ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Lamontagne, 2632 Douglas Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs.

Lieut. H. H. Tate, RCN, and Mrs. Tate, 1201 Rockcrest Avenue, announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Marilyn Elizabeth, to Mr. Robert Pearson Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fraser, Nipawin, Sask. The wedding will take place on Friday, April 3, in St. John's Anglican Church, with Rev. Colin A. Campbell officiating. Miss Tate is a 1963 graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital school of nursing.—(Leonard Holmes)

Frank Frost, 234 Acron Street. Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a white peau de sole gown with short semibelted skirt and sleeveless bodice. She wore a lace over-jacket with lily-point sleeves and boat neckline. A white peau de sole pill box headpiece held her shoulder-length veil in place and her only jewelry was a pearl drop necklace and matching earrings. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Marlene Simpson, wore a pale pink peau de sole sheath with matching lace jacket and peau de sole pillbox hat en tone. Bridesmaid, Mrs. J. Anderson, groom's sister, and Miss Penny Orr, bridesmaid, wore similarly-styled ensembles in pink tones. They all carried white gladioli trimmed with ribbon to match their dresses.

Mr. Don Hagel was best man, Mr. Vern Parrott and Mr. Gary Lamontagne, bride's brother, were ushers.

Following a reception at Club Tango the newlyweds left for a honeymoon to Seattle. For travelling the bride changed to a peach colored suit with matching hat and gloves and black patent accessories.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Frost will make their home at 236 Acron Street.

Realize $130

A successful membership drive, coffee and sherry party was held recently at the Lansdowne Road home of Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Akorn under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital.

Mrs. H. F. Jarvis, president and general convener, and Mrs. E. Vant received the guests.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett and Mrs. W. L. Cloke poured. Looking after the table were Mrs. C. W. Watson, Mrs. C. M. McCarthy, Mrs. D. L. Macdonell, Mrs. A. M. Kent, Mrs. F. T. Sehl and Mrs. E. Hart.

Convening refreshments were Mrs. P. Newman assisted by Mrs. G. R. Fleming, Mrs. J. B. Thomson, Mrs. L. Mess, Mrs. D. Sallis, Mrs. J. Philpott, Mrs. J. Van Norman and Mrs. Forster Smith.

Mrs. D. Jewell convened the home baking and was assisted by Mrs. P. E. Bomford and Mrs. R. S. Alder.

Mrs. G. Homer did the lovely floral arrangements and Mrs. F. R. Roberts signed up six new members. Mrs. W. Ponder and Mrs. B. Ross were in charge of the mystery raffle.

The sum of $130 was realized.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Is it possible for a person to bring the hiccupps on himself? The fellow to whom I'm engaged manages to get the hiccupps at the most inopportune times. I believe Bud does it to attract attention, although he denies it.

Last week in the theatre Bud started hiccupping—and I mean loud. He hiccupped for five minutes straight. Everyone in the place was roaring with laughter. I told him to cut it out because he was embarrassing me. Bud said he couldn't help it. Finally I warned him that if he hiccupped one more time I was walking out. The hiccupps disappeared immediately.

What does this sound like to you? Do you know of a quick hiccup cure? Thanks for your help.—CHAGRINED. Dear Chagrined: Some people can bring on their own hiccupps. Bud may or may not have this dubious talent. One thing seems clear, however—once he gets the hiccupps he plays 'em for all they're worth.

There are many home cures for simple hiccupps. The one that works best for me is this: Hold the breath as long as possible then take a sip of water and hold the breath again—until the hiccupps disappear.

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to "Screaming Mother" was excellent. But I hoped you'd say something about the victims of "screaming mothers"—their helpless children.

My little brother and I were screamed at, slapped and knocked around almost every day of our lives. Dad would say, "Mother doesn't mean it, she's nervous."

My brother had an ulcer operation when he was 15 and died three months later. I had a nervous breakdown during my junior year in high school, and spent ten months in a private hospital.

I'm a senior in college now, working part-time to pay for psychiatric therapy. Mother still screams at me every day, and reminds me of how much she went through to raise me. Thank God I've learned to tune her out but it has taken years.

Dear Delores: If your therapy is a total success you will not only be able to "tune your mother out" but to forgive her. This poor woman, like thousands of other screaming mothers, is wretched and miserable. Temper your judgment with mercy.

Mrs. Unnie S. Thyvold, with Tora and Olaf, pictured in their apartment at Christie Point, says:

"I like my apartment because it is so modern and conveniently laid out. We enjoy the children's playground which is so handy, and the feeling of country living in an apartment with no upkeep."

Christie Point Apartments, a development of Consolidated Building Corporation, are located on Craigowan Road, off Highway 1A just past Craigflower Bridge. The Rental Office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the phone is EV 5-0644. You too, can rent an apartment at Christie Point for as little as $110.00 a month.

Garden Notes

How to Prune Roses

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHM

I devoted most of my column space yesterday explaining the theory of rose pruning, and I did my best to make clear the why and wherefore of the job. Today, as I promised, we'll get into the actual operative procedure, but frankly, I think you'd get the hang of it much better if you were to go to Beacon Hill Park next Wednesday afternoon and watch Alex Johnstone pruning the plants in the rose garden. This demonstration, open to the public, is staged every year by the Victoria Horticultural Society.

Most novice gardeners seem reluctant to cut away much of their precious rose bushes. They snip away at the tips of the shoots, but with most kinds of roses the pruning should be pretty drastic to do any good. Most hybrid teas need to be cut back very hard indeed, and in the case of newly planted H.T. roses, if you have done the pruning job properly, you'll have to look twice to see if there is any bush there at all!

Use a very sharp knife or a really good pair of secateurs, making sure of a clean cut with no crushed wood or ragged edges. If your secateurs are something less than perfect, finish off by smoothing the surface of the cut with your knife. Don't tug or pull at the bush or you may loosen its roots in the soil.

Take your time over the pruning job and think things out as you work.

visualizing the bush as it will be after it has made its new growth. If the ground is wet or muddy, get yourself a plank to stand or kneel on as you study your bush. Wear a tough pair of gloves, for rose prickles can be murder!

First, deal with any dead shoots you may find, cutting them right out at their point of origin. Then look for old stems which, while not dead, failed to throw out any strong shoots last year. Take these out too, in their entirety, and if they are, too stout for the secateurs, use a hacksaw blade. At the same time, cut away any thin, wiggly shoots.

At this point we should have left on the plant several strong young stems of last year's growth, nicely ripened, and perhaps a few soft, reddish-colored shoots that grew too late last year to ripen properly. These unripened shoots may or may not have escaped winter frost, but in any case they are better cut away. Only the strong, ripe stems remain now to be shortened.

There will probably be a few new sprouts emerging from these woody stems, mostly near the top. Disregard these and look for a plump growth bud fairly low down on each stem, and facing outward, away from the centre of the bush. If you can't find an actual growth bud in the desired position, look for a dormant eye. Cut off everything above this selected bud or eye, making a smooth, slanting cut about 1/4 inch above the bud. Do this on each of the other woody stems.

Take a look now at your pruning cuts. If the pith in the centre of the cut stem is discolored yellow or brown, it is a pretty sure sign that your selected bud or eye will fail to develop. Choose another well-placed eye lower down, where the cut wood shows clean white or green pith in the centre.

The idea of selecting a low-down bud or dormant eye is to build up your bush with fresh, vigorous young growth almost from the bottom. An outward-facing bud is chosen so the new shoot will grow away from the centre, thereby keeping the middle of the bush open to the sun and air. Any inward-facing shoots or growth buds on the woody stems should be rubbed out with the thumb.

The floribunda roses—you remember, these are the kinds that bear their flowers in clusters—don't require such severe pruning as the hybrid teas. Just take out any weak or dead canes and any inward-facing branches, then shorten the main stems by about one-third of their length, again to an outward-facing eye, and do whatever shaping as may be necessary for symmetry. With older bushes, I think it pays to take out the one oldest, thickest stem every year, using a small saw or a hacksaw blade, to encourage young and vigorous replacement shoots.

Pool $8,400—Water Extra

WASHINGTON—As part of our war on poverty we decided to install a swimming pool in a new house we're buying. We didn't realize how complicated the purchase of a swimming pool can be. Next to used car dealers, swimming pool salesmen are the most sincere of all businessmen, and one tends to believe everything they tell you.

The other day we interviewed a swimming pool salesman and you can't imagine what an education it was.

After looking over the property he said, "I can put in a pool—complete—for $8,400."

"That includes everything?" we asked.

"Of course. That's my price—complete."

"Well, it is a little high," we said, "but perhaps I can make it. We'd like a rectangular pool."

"A rectangular pool? I wish you had told me that before. That's $800 extra. You see, it's very difficult to dig a rectangle in the ground."

"That brings it up to $9,000," we said.

"Yes, but that will be complete with everything. Now I'd like to ask you a few questions."

"Yes, sir."

"Did you plan on putting water in the pool?" he asked.

"I thought it would be fun."

"That will be an extra $250. You see, if we put water in the pool, we have to get a permit and that takes a great deal of time."

"I knew I shouldn't have asked for water," we said.

"Did you want concrete in the pool?"

"I think so. Why do you ask?"

"Well, the pool gets so muddy otherwise. The concrete will be $350 extra. Of course, if you want granite, it will be $500."

"What's the difference?"

"If you use regular concrete, the pool will leak."

He wrote everything down in his book.

"Let me ask you this," he continued, "had you planned on filtering the water?"

"I guess so. What are the advantages?"

"Well, if you filter the water, there is less chance of the children's catching typhoid or yellow fever. We can give you an excellent filter for $450."

"I guess in the long run it would be cheaper," we said.

"Now what about steps to get out of the pool?"

"Couldn't the people just climb out over the side?" we inquired.

"They could, but that would mean we'd have to build coping around the pool. The steps cost $300, the coping $500."

"You'd better give us steps."

"What had you planned to put around the pool?" he asked.

"I don't know. What do you put around a pool?"

"We could give you a concrete walk for $670."

"It sounds like you're losing money on the job," we said.

"That's our problem," he replied. "Now what about tree leaves in the pool?"

"I don't want any leaves in the pool," we said, hoping to save some money.

"We don't put leaves in the pool," he said. "We take them out. You'd want a skimmer for $320. Did you plan on a diving board?"

"Sure, why not?"

"That will be $1,000," he said.

"A thousand dollars for a diving board?" we asked incredulously.

"Not just for the diving board," he said. "If you're going to have a diving board, you'll need deep water. The price I gave you was for a shallow pool. I thought you understood that. Why don't you get anything I say straight?"

"I'm sorry," we apologized. "Will you ever forgive me?"

He wrote down $1,000 in his notebook. "Just this once. But let's have no more haggling."

Let's Take It Easy, Says JACK SMITH

Whoa! Why the Hurry?

It may be that our passion for speed is waning. There is a point of diminishing return in speed. In a jet airplane, for example, going 800 mph at 30,000 feet, one has no sense of speed at all.

I was delighted to read, therefore, that among those newly idle people seeking some deeper satisfaction in their leisure there is a return to the steamboat.

Why? Fired up and going all out, these ungainly tubs will make no more than five to 10 horsepower.

Ernest Gann, the novelist who spent thousands of harrowing hours as a pilot in the pioneering days of commercial aviation, is now the master of a quaint old 32-foot steam launch called Restless.

"It's the quiet of it all," Gann explains. "The smell of steam, the sliding cleanly through the water—throwing no wake... there's a nice slow thrill in steaming."

Suddenly, up and down both coasts, hundreds of adventurers, burning with a desire to go slow, are poking around the forgotten salvage yards, looking for dying steamboats they can rescue.

Why? Fired up and going all out, these ungainly tubs will make no more than five to 10 horsepower.

People are reacting against today's world of speed," says Morgan North, who publishes a fan magazine for steamers, "against the hurry-up-and-leave philosophy."

We should all rejoice in this timely discovery that speed for its own sake is not necessarily the ultimate goal of the human spirit.

I would like to see a new set of freeways designed for people who want to go slow. The speed limit in the centre lanes would be 30 mph. On either side of these there would be broad walks winding through verdant parkways, set with fountains, benches and gazebos.

Outside the walks, on a slightly lower level, there would be riding trails, set with sycamores and snappers.

The auto lanes, the walks and the riding trails would all be broad enough for two-way traffic, so people could nod at each other and say "good morning" as they passed.

Such a system of freeways could restore some vanishing charm. Our bucolic highways would be our Bois de Boulogne, our Villa Borghese, our Vienna Woods.

Possibly these parkways shouldn't go anywhere. They could be great rings, circular or elliptical, flowing through every environment and enriching every neighborhood.

Nothing will come of this proposal, I suppose, in our day. As long as people think of time as a nuisance, something to be destroyed by speed, we will have to go faster and faster.

But in the words of a great old ballad, "ain't nothin' worth doin' that ain't worth doin' slow."

No Publicity Please! Plead Well-Known Pair

TORONTO (UP)—Elizabeth Taylor, freed from husband Eddie Fisher, will take Richard Burton as her fifth husband and climax the decade's most publicized romance in ceremonies so quiet not even their closest friends will know about it, a spokesman said yesterday.

When the marriage will take place, and where, is anybody's guess. But it is a better bet than even that when the couple returns to the United States later this month it will be as man and wife.

John Springer, a New York public relations executive who acts as spokesman for the couple, said as far as he knew their plans for marriage had not yet been completed.

"The last thing they want is publicity," he said.

Did He Consent? Jury Gets Sinatra Kidnap Case LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A jury of nine men and three women Friday night received the Frank Sinatra kidnap case with instructions from the judge to decide whether the crooner's son was victim of a real crime, or "voluntarily or by his own free will" consented to be kidnapped.

U.S. Judge William East gave detailed instructions lasting one hour, 40 minutes regarding charges against three defendants, and then sent the jurors to supper. The jury was instructed it could start deliberating Friday night or wait until today. 'THREATS' CLAIM East said the jury must decide whether Frank Sinatra Jr. let himself—either by verbal or implied consent—be kidnapped from a Lake Tahoe motel and transported to southern California. But he took notice of the fact the crooner's son testified he consented only under instructions from his abductors under threat of bodily harm. The defence claims Sinatra consented to be kidnapped as a publicity gimmick, to win fame and notoriety.

Alberta Cuts Rejected

Lusty Film Withheld

TORONTO (CP)—Tom Jones, the lusty British movie that is a leading candidate for many of this year's academy awards, will not be shown in Alberta with deletions made by the Alberta censorship board, a spokesman for United Artists said yesterday.

Commenting on a report from Edmonton that Tom Jones had been approved with minor deletions for showing in Alberta under the adult cover and will be released for category, the spokesman for the film's distributors said in Canada in mid-March.

He added that the film has not been booked into any Alberta theatres.

Tom Jones is showing now in Ottawa, Toronto and Van-

Tanker Cut in Half As Blasts Kill Five

SEATTLE (UPI) — Five tankermen, including the skipper, died Friday when the 10,000-ton tanker Bunker Hill exploded, burned and sank five miles off Whidbey Island in northern Puget Sound.

Twenty-five were rescued, four of them by Coast Guard helicopter and 21 by navy crash boat.

The ship's ordinary complement is 44, but because the vessel was running empty between Tacoma and Anacortes, Wash., the rest of the crew was given shore leave and were to rejoin the vessel at the Shell Oil refinery in Anacortes.

THREE EXPLOSIONS

The tanker was blasted by three explosions. The first, at about 4:05 a.m., ripped the vessel in two. As the bow section floated past the stern with her stern pointing toward the sky a second explosion blasted the forward hull section.

Harold Baker, 40, Pasadena, Calif., was one of the crew on the bow section where he was standing lookout watch.

"I looked back and all I could see was flame," he said from his hospital bed in Anacortes. "I ducked under a fire apron to dodge flying debris. Then I went into the forward hatch to get my life jacket. Before I got out again, the rear of the bow section had sunk and the bow was standing vertical. I was standing on a pipe, and the second explosion sent flames all around me."

BALIED OUT

"I bailed out the water. My watch was stopped at 4:18," George Evans, 37, Seattle, a fireman and welder, saw Baker on the bow section. Evans had been in the messroom getting a can of tomato juice when the first blast came.

"I was just putting the cup to my mouth when the explosion threw the cup up to the bulkhead," he said. "I heard two explosions but the other members of the crew heard three."

"The bow of the ship, of all things, came right at us, standing straight up. It was just slowly moving past us, about 10 feet off the fantail."

Swede, 83 Father 12th Time

KATRINEHOLM (Reuters) — An 83-year-old Swedish pensioner living in nearby Vingaker recently became a father for the 12th time, it was learned Friday.

Emil Blixt — whose last name in Swedish means "lightning" — also has the distinction of having had all his children since his 60th birthday.

Blixt's 40-year-old wife Viola gave birth to a boy two days ago, bringing the family total to seven boys and five girls.

The oldest known father in the world is believed to be an American farmer who was 94 when he and his 77-year-old wife had their first child. However, he already had 16 children by a previous marriage.

Fathers of 80 or more are rare but 70-year-old fathers are fairly common, according to Swedish doctors.

Blixt sees nothing unusual about his family. "I cannot understand what all the fuss is about," he told reporters.

"And there was a fellow with a life jacket standing on the bow. If I live to be a hundred, I'll never see anything like it."

Teachers Told

School 'Bastion' Of Individuality

The school appears to be the last bastion of individuality in a world of conformity. Ronald E. Jones, director of special education in Toronto, told the Greater Victoria teachers' convention yesterday.

He told the teachers conformity is being forced upon us by communication improvements, population increases, urbanization, large industrial organizations, and most of all, automation.

ADJUSTMENT PROBLEM

Educationalists are concerned with the adjustment of students but adjustment does not mean conformity. The place of the individual is jeopardized by mass instruction because teachers are often motivated by "the good of the masses."

"This results in little individuality and permits little side-tracking in subjects."

"The teacher must make a compromise between the group and the individual," he said.

AUTOMATION SEEN

He forewarned, in 50 years, automated classrooms, libraries of programmed learning and more leisure for everybody, perhaps even a six-month holiday. Machines will repair machines.

'Sleep of Death' Caused by Flies

Mathematics Key

Knowledge Soars In 64 Years

Man has obtained, in the past 64 years, ten times the knowledge he held for the previous 2,000 years, Dr. E. D. Nichols told the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association convention yesterday.

Dr. Nichols, head of mathematics education at the Florida State University, told teachers the curriculum in mathematics is no longer static but is ever-changing.

OWN LANGUAGE

He said mathematics teaches both conformity and creativity. It has its own language which expresses relationships better than ordinary language. In fact, if some mathematical ideas were expressed in ordinary language, the reader would be confused and frustrated.

Dr. Nichols said that mathematics now is concerning itself with abstract patterns and its applications continue to increase.

NO USE, BUT

At the beginning of the century a system of "matrices" was contrived as an exercise and it was thought that it would be of no use to anyone, but today, physicists could not operate without it.

Dr. Nichols said that new developments reflect the underlying principles of mathematics development.

LITTLE THINGS MATTER

Mathematics teaches little things do matter and must fit a pattern. Computations must be good or the patterns are not easily seen.

Police Work Cuts Addicts

VANCOUVER (CP)—Top RCMP and city police officials announced Friday that constant pressure on the million-dollar narcotics racket has cut the number of west coast addicts by 50 per cent.

In a rare joint press conference, they announced that there were approximately 970 addicts in the Lower Mainland area in and around Vancouver and that about 490 of these were in prison at any given time.

This was about half the number active about 10 years ago. Inspector J. J. Atherton of the RCMP said there was "no doubt that Vancouver still has the largest number of drug users in Canada," but that the reduction here has been reflected "across the country."

"There is a variety of reasons, high among them steady enforcement and heavier penalties."

He estimated that drug users in the Vancouver area spend between $5,000 and $6,000 a day on their habit, paying from $15 to $20 for a capsule of heroin.

"We estimate that about an ounce a day of heroin is sold on the streets of Vancouver for a total of about 400 capsules."

"There has been a very decided decrease in consumption by the average addict."

He said police suspect that the percentage of part-time users is greater than in the past, adding:

"I don't know how many, but we believe many have cured themselves."

Criminal addicts, not counting such so-called professional addicts as doctors and nurses, spent approximately $1,800,000 on their habit during 1963.

Harkness Blames Bennett

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, said Friday Canada did not get the best possible Columbia River development treaty with the United States because of opposition by Premier Bennett of British Columbia.

"We did the best we could," he said during the fourth straight day of Commons debate on the treaty.

"But there was no use trying to go ahead with a plan which British Columbia wouldn't agree to."

Mr. Harkness said the development plan of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former Canadian chairman of the International Joint Commission, has greater long-term advantages to Canada embodied in the treaty.

But adoption of the McNaughton plan would have involved flooding of the East Kootenays and Windermere Valley, and British Columbia had refused to allow this.

When the former government had encountered this, it had had to search for the "next best" plan the former administration could get British Columbia to agree to.

The responsibility for Canada getting second best rested squarely on the shoulders of the B.C. government, Mr. Harkness said.

Bert Lebow (SC — Cariboo) said he resents statements about Mr. Bennett which made it appear the premier was acting apart from his government and the will of British Columbia.

Perry Ryan (L — Toronto Spadina) drew angry protests from New Democratic Party MPs when he charged that the NDP and the Communist Party of Canada have taken similar stands on the Columbia treaty.

"The old McCarthy technique," interjected H. W. Herdridge (NDP — Kootenay West).

Mr. Herdridge added amid laughter that the Communist party endorses the Liberal government's Canada Pension Plan.

Why didn't Mr. Ryan read that Communist statement too? George Chatterton (PC — Esquimalt — Saanich) estimated that the new federal sales tax on building materials will add about $25,000,000 to the cost of the three proposed storage dams in B.C.

Undertaker Answered

Card Claim 'Preposterous'

Charges that all a citizen gets for a $5 single membership or $10 family membership in the Memorial Society of British Columbia is a card worth a quarter of a cent were dismissed last night as "preposterous."

The charges were made by city funeral director Laverne Sands to the Colonist Thursday night.

"When a person makes an application for membership in the society he receives a designation form," said Marvin Evans, a spokesman for the society.

On this form he indicates the basic facts about himself all funeral directors must have in order to register a death with the provincial government.

He also indicates what he wants done with the remains, cemetery arrangements, if any, whether he wants a memorial service held and if so whether in a church, crematorium, chapel or home. He gives name of the church and minister, whether there are to be newspaper notices, flowers, gifts to charity and whether he wishes to donate his eyes to the eye bank, or his body to medical science.

Mr. Evans said the member signs the form, along with his next-of-kin, and it is put on permanent file with the society's undertaker, First Memorial Services Ltd. He receives a wallet card asking that First Memorial Services be notified in the event of death.

First Memorial Services maintains physical facilities with 24-hour service just as does any other undertaker, Mr. Evans said.

MEMORIAL RITES

Mr. Evans said many of the people using the services of First Memorial Services Ltd. and the Memorial Society of B.C. specify a memorial service, either religious or secular, to be conducted by a clergyman or friend.

"Speaking as a minister I feel that such a service in a church or at home is many cuts above the spectacle which often takes place in a pseudo-funeral home in the presence of the corpse which has been powdered up so it appears to be asleep," Mr. Evans said.

Varsity Wins 'Fiery' Debate

An enthusiastic crowd of 300 University of Victoria students saw their debating team defeat that of the University of British Columbia at noon yesterday.

University of Victoria debaters Michael Stephen and Walter Bell, supporting the resolution, that Nero fiddled while Rome burned, cited historical accounts such as that of Tacitus, while Brian Wallace and Linda Murray of UBC disproved the validity of all the words in the topic, and maintained that "history is bunk."

Judges Geoffrey Archbold of the classics department, Dr. E. Efrat of the department of economics and political science, and Dr. J. Oglesby of the history department evaluated the arguments of both sides, which included many barbed exchanges between the rival universities.

Fire Too Advanced For Family to Halt

A man and his two sons stood helplessly by early yesterday and watched the house containing everything they owned go up in smoke. There was no insurance.

Harry Jones, who earns his living as an odd-job man, was visiting with his brother at the north end of the Patricia Bay Indian Reserve. Sons Harry and Hayward had gone with him after the family had eaten supper.

He first saw the flames when leaving his brother's and ran to the house, but the fire was too far advanced for him to do anything except send his sons to turn in the fire alarm.

The Sidney Volunteer Fire department was on the scene minutes after the alarm but the house was badly damaged.

Mr. Jones said the tools he used—including a $300 power saw—were destroyed.

His brother yesterday was trying to help him, but for Mr. Jones the first problem is finding a house.

"It is going to be difficult," Mr. Jones said.

New Constitution

Hydro Bill Passes Committee Debate

A bill giving the Crown-owned British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority a fresh constitution passed the committee stage of debate in the legislature Friday.

The bill, to take effect only when proclaimed, was drawn up after B.C. Chief Justice Lett found previous legislation establishing the authority invalid.

Constitutionality of the authority's establishment in 1962 is the subject of two appeals filed by the government against judge's rulings.

In the rulings, judges found Chief Justice Lett's ruling remained in force despite an out-of-court settlement between the authority and B.C. Power Corporation, private owners of B.C. Electric Co.

The Lett judgment primarily concerned the government's take over of the BCE in 1961, which he ruled ultra-vires of the province's powers.

The official New Democratic Party opposition supported the new bill but voted with the five-man Liberal group in opposing three of the 58 sections.

The government easily defeated the opposition with majorities of eight, nine and 11.

COMPENSATION

Opposed were sections providing for final and binding ruling on compensation for damage by a government-appointed evaluator; freeing Hydro from all provincial statutes except those mentioned in the bill; and granting the government wide powers on regulations.

The Liberals also opposed a long section which allows Hydro to enter other fields of enterprise.

UNLIMITED NATURE

Alan Macfarlane (L — Oak Bay) said the section gives "powers of almost an unlimited nature . . . not subject to any real review at all by the legislature."

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said the powers are the same that belong to private firms. "A public corporation has every right to equal freedom, equal authority with private corporations."

Liberal leader Ray Perrault rose to say the difference was that "this is public money we are dealing with."

Section 53, which frees Hydro from all provincial statutes except those mentioned in the bill, "takes away all legislation over the years except as set out in this bill," said Gordon Dowling (NDP — Burnaby).

Two Runs To 'Unite' Worker

It took two emergency runs before all of Joseph Schmidt, 415 Walter, could be re-united after he had cut off part of his thumb while working on a machine at Van Isle Moulding, 517 Del Monte.

Mr. Schmidt was oiling the machine when he apparently slipped, catching his hand.

He was rushed, without thumb, in a private car to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Minutes after he left, an employee found the thumb and rushed it to Saanich police, who in turn rushed it to the hospital where it was sewn back on.

Bonner:

Courts To Merge

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said changes in British Columbia's supreme and county courts system approved in principle by the legislature Friday are a step toward merger of the two courts.

"I look to the time... when the two trial divisions of the county and supreme courts will become one," Mr. Bonner said, "perhaps under the current name of the Supreme Court of British Columbia."

He said the major overhaul would mean the stationing of "resident justices of the supreme court" in various parts of the province.

LIMITS REMOVED

Two bills given unanimous second reading in the House Friday had the effect of removing monetary limits on jurisdiction of county courts over lawsuits and empowering county court justices to hear divorce proceedings.

The bills also permit use of juries in criminal cases before county court justices and declaratory provisions would involve simplification of county court procedures along lines already adopted for the supreme court.

Mr. Bonner said the amendments continued on Page 2

Bonner's Fringe Benefit?

Gordon Dowling (N.D.P., Burnaby) had words of praise for Attorney-General Bonner Friday for his introduction of two bills re-vamping British Columbia's supreme and county courts system.

"They represent the most revolutionary change in the B.C. courts system since the abolition of the wig," he said.

"I was thinking of bringing this back," smiled the attorney-general, long a slave to "Yul Brynner" hair styles.

Haase Sentenced To Die June 30

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Mechanic Lawrence Herman Haase, 25, Friday was found guilty of murder in the deaths of pretty teen-aged twin sisters and sentenced to be hanged.

Haase, from Kelowna, was convicted of capital murder in the death of Donna Ring, 14, and sentenced to be hanged June 30.

In the death of Donna's twin sister Dianna, Haase was convicted of non-capital murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The defence indicated an appeal would be launched immediately.

There was no recommendation regarding clemency.

Courthouse Madhouse During Break

DALLAS (AP)—Seven prisoners broke out of the county jail Friday and two of them turned the corridors around the Jack Ruby murder trial into bedlam. One captured a woman hostage with a fake pistol.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Player stopped the prisoner with the hostage and freed her, taking the prisoner into custody.

Less than two hours later four were recaptured, including two picked up in the courthouse and immediate area.

The hostage was Mrs. Ruth

Thornton, about 60, widow of a former district court judge.

Sheriff Bill Decker identified the man with the pistol made of soap as Clarence D. Gregory.

The Ruby trial was not disrupted. Reporters in the courtroom said no one knew of the corridor furore.

One heroine of the wild, screaming melee was Mrs. Melvin M. Belli, wife of Ruby's chief defence counsel. Ruby is on trial for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of president Kennedy.

While Ottawa Waits

ARMY HONED FOR CYPRUS

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department Friday honed down its "operation Cyprus" plan to the finest details.

The army has even issued information pamphlets giving Cyprus' geography, climate, population, historical background and the current political situation.

About all that the department can do now is wait for the government to decide whether to meet the United Nations request for a Canadian manpower contribution to the Cyprus peace-keeping force.

MORE INFORMATION

External Affairs Minister Martin informed the Commons Friday that no decision can be reached until a three-man UN team returns from Cyprus with more information on the responsibilities of the force.

"Canada will not shirk its responsibility as a member of the United Nations," Mr. Martin asserted.

NOT INFORMED

The UN has not informed Canada yet what kind or size of contribution it wants from this country: infantrymen or technical personnel, such as signallers.

Canada has not sent infantrymen to any UN operation since Korea. The UN requests have been for technicians in Egypt, The Congo and other trouble spots.

Troops Hard To Find

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Secretary-General U Thant Friday named an Indian general to head the United Nations Cyprus force, but ran into difficulties raising troops for it.

While Sweden agreed conditionally to provide a contingent, Brazil turned down Thant's request for men.

REPLIES DELAYED

Finland and Ireland also held off their replies while Austria, approached informally by Thant, was reported ready to contribute only a non-combat group such as a hospital unit.

A spokesman for Brazil's Ambassador Carlos Alfredo Bernades said his country could not raise sufficient hard currency to maintain a contingent in Cyprus.

EXPECTED U.S. AID

Diplomatic sources said Brazil had looked to the United States to provide financial backing for its contribution and apparently had been turned down.

The UN announced the dispatch of the three-man team to

President? Here? Tonight?

Yes, I'm from Dallas Yes, This Is a Gun

DALLAS (UPI)—He was from Dallas and had a rifle. And he showed up at Newark, N.J., airport only minutes before President Johnson was to arrive.

It was just the set of circumstances to get John Russell in a pack of trouble, and he said, "It's kinda funny now, but I sure wasn't laughing then."

Russell, an insurance agent, had been given the rifle by a Philadelphia friend and was bringing it home.

A Newark officer asked him if that was a gun he was carrying and did he know the president was coming.

"I said yes, I had a gun, handed it to him and said no, I didn't know the president was coming in," Russell said.

The guard asked Russell where he was from. "Dallas," Russell replied.

"You haven't got a chance now," the guard said. Soon, New York city police, Newark city police, state police, Secret Service men and the FBI arrived.

"I knew I was in for it."

He was questioned for more than an hour before he convinced police he knew nothing about the president's arrival.

He was eight hours late getting home.

Arrested Stripper To Testify

ORANGE, Tex. (UPI)—A brunette stripper who said Jack Ruby killed Lee Oswald to gain publicity will be escorted from Orange County jail to Dallas today to testify in Ruby's murder trial. (Ruby trial story, Page 5.)

Dallas Sheriff Bill Decker said Friday he has sent men here to fly with Penny Dollar, 21, to Dallas.

Miss Dollar was arrested in Orange and charged with possessing a dangerous drug. She told police she had once stripped in Ruby's Carousel Club when another dancer became ill.

The tall beauty said she had "known Ruby a long, long time. My mother stripped for him 18 years ago."

Bill 67

Noise, Fireworks Controls in Big Overhaul of Municipal Act—but Nothing on a Sunday

By JACK FRY

The Municipal Act, which regulates all cities and municipalities in B.C. expect the city of Vancouver will be given a major overhaul this year.

Sweeping amendments ranging from Saturday elections to noise control regulations are contained in Bill 67 which was introduced and given first reading in the legislature yesterday.

Vancouver is exempt from the act because it operates under its own charter.

Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black, who brought in the bill, said outside the House that many of the amendments were recommended by the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

Theo Adams of New Westminster, executive director of the UBCM, told newsmen that "by and large all the amendments are for better administration of municipal governments."

Missing from the bill is any reference to Sunday sports and entertainment.

Mr. Adams said "the UBCM will be very disappointed that Sunday sports was not included, and probably will continue to press for municipal authority in this field."

Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith, who some time ago

said he would introduce a bill for local option on Sunday sports, said yesterday he will introduce such an amendment for Bill 67.

Bill 67 also outlines what type of business operations are exempt from municipal business licences, and is expected to eliminate future disputes such as cases where Victoria businessmen objected recently to having to obtain licences in Saanich to operate in that municipality.

After the bill is passed in the legislature, civic officials throughout Greater Victoria who are now adjusted to the last change of the Municipal Act in 1962, will have to burn the midnight oil to catch up on hundreds of small technical matters.

Municipal Affairs Black said yesterday he hopes that in future the act will have to be amended only "once every two or three years." In the past, amendments were brought in on almost an annual basis.

Major changes proposed by the bill:

● Civic elections will be held on Saturday of the week following candidates' nomination day, which is the last Monday in November. In the past, elections were held on Thursday of the week following nomination day.

● Councils will have the power to "regulate or prohibit" anything within the municipal boundary which causes noise that disturbs "the quiet, peace, rest, enjoyment, comfort or convenience of the neighborhood."

Teeth for enforcement of noise control are contained in the fact that offenders can be fined or imprisoned or both. There is no specific maximum penalty.

● Councils can issue permits for the use of fireworks and may specify conditions under which the fireworks will be allowed.

● Councils will have the authority to require fencing of private swimming pools and other types of pools.

● Professional people, including doctors, lawyers, private detectives and surveyors are not required to hold business licences outside of the areas where their offices are located.

Although the wording of this section states that a professional person is exempt "unless he regularly and generally carries on business in the municipality," a municipal affairs department spokesman said the person is considered exempt "unless he has an office in the municipality."

● Changes will be made in municipal borrowing. Proposed borrowing will have to be approved first by the inspector of municipalities, six per cent will be the maximum interest rate allowed for money borrowed, and temporary financing can be arranged between passage of money bylaws and sale of debentures.

Smith: Motion Due

Change Reaction Mixed

Amendments to the Municipal Act, planned for this year, met with mixed feelings from civic leaders in the lower Island.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow welcomed the amendment dealing with noise control.

He said that there is a problem here in the residential areas, which are often disturbed at night by trucks, and his committee has received many complaints.

He said also that merchants have complained about trucks making noise on Government Street and said the amendment would be helpful in permitting council to regulate.

M. F. Hunter, returning officer, wasn't pleased about the changing of municipal election day from Thursday to Saturday. "Oh, no!" was his reaction.

GAVE UP ACT

He said Victoria pioneered the Thursday election and even gave up its private act when the government indicated that there would be changes to have all municipal elections on the same day.

"The government should have informed us so we could have kept the private act," Mr. Hunter said.

WELCOMED

Reeve Stanley Murphy of Saanich, on the other hand, welcomed Saturday. "We've been working for that for years," he said. "If this applies to district municipalities, it's a good move, I think."

He welcomed the legislation which would permit municipalities to control fencing of swimming pools and other pools on private property.

GOOD TO HAVE

He said that it was no problem at present, but as pools become more common it would be good to have the power to insist that they be fenced.

Regarding the power to issue permits for fireworks and the power to specify conditions under which they may be used, Reeve Murphy said that Saanich had some control now. The municipality also has power to regulate noise under its nuisance bylaw.

Merchants Plan Daff Parley

Selling of miniature plastic daffodils through Victoria stores will be discussed at a brief meeting of the retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the chamber's board room at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Budget Paring Time Here

By IAN STREET

Aldermen begin their annual tussle with the city's $10,000,000-plus current budget at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

This is only the preliminary to the final deliberations at which the 1964 mill-rate will be set sometime in mid-April.

ITEM BY ITEM

On Monday the public works group of committees begin an item-by-item study of estimates submitted by the heads of civic departments. The meetings are scheduled for morning and afternoon.

FINANCE GROUP

The finance group begins its cutting of departmental estimates Tuesday. The all-day session will break off at 3:30 p.m. to allow the mayor and finance chairman to attend the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal committee.

The schedule hasn't been fixed for the rest of the week, but either finance or public works will continue Wednesday with the other group taking Thursday.

CRASH PROGRAM

City manager Dennis Young said a "crash program" will be mounted this year to get the preliminary budget cutting over within the period of one week. Night sessions will be resorted to, if necessary.

The provisional budget, required by law at the beginning of each year, amounted to $10,990,000 for 1964. The city's 1963 budget was $10,600,000.

MEANINGLESS

Since council isn't required to stick by any part of the provisional budget it becomes virtually meaningless.

The increase it contained this year—up around $30,000 from the 1964 final budget—was mainly to cover additional salary requests by employees.

TWO DISPUTES SETTLED

However, with the civic in side and outside workers settled for a 3.5 per cent increase and firemen for 2.5 per cent nothing like this amount will be required for salaries. Only police salaries remain unsettled.

Two unknown factors will influence budget deliberations, particularly in final stages. The first is a capital budget program, which is scheduled to be presented to council within a couple of weeks; the second is school taxes, fixed by provincial order in mid-April.

Trip Sunday

A trip to Port Alberni is planned for Sunday by the Outdoor and So-Ed Club of the Y.M.W.C.A. Members of the club, which is open to people between the ages of 18 and 40, will meet outside the YWCA at 8 a.m.

Council Told

Local Disaster Job For Civil Defence

PORT ALBERNI — While civil defence is concerned with protection of the populace in event of nuclear war, it is equally concerned with action in the event of local disaster. Harold Snider, CD co-ordinator for Vancouver Island, pointed out in Port Alberni during a visit with council here.

Port Alberni dropped out of the Civil Defence organization some time ago, and Mr. Snider said he hoped he had persuaded Mayor Les Hammer and his council to re-join.

"Things that constitute civil defence are municipal responsibilities and a council is remiss in its duties if it does not realize this," Mr. Snider said.

He explained that 75 per cent of costs of the organization are borne by the federal government, and 15 per cent by the provincial government.

It was pointed out that there are many people in this district who have already received training in the various areas of civil defence work.

ENTIRE SECTOR

While Port Alberni had been involved in the training program, a plan had been worked out to cover the entire sector, with Port Alberni to pay five-sixths of the local costs and Alberni the remainder.

The visitor told Mayor Hammer if the city had been active in the CD organization, application could have been made for financial assistance in the recent purchase of a $20,000 fire engine. Up to one-third of the cost of such equipment is given if it is to be used in training civil defence personnel.

Harbor Control Bill Introduced in Senate

A government bill which could affect Port Alberni and Nanaimo harbor administration—killed in the Senate last December—has been introduced again in the upper chamber.

The measure provides for establishment of harbor commissions to administer about 300 local harbors on the coast and inland.

ABOUSED PROTESTS

The original bill included proposals for Toronto, Hamilton and St. Boniface. Winnipeg waterfront administration, but protests from these areas resulted in defeat of the proposal in December.

The new bill, to be debated Tuesday, does not include plans for these areas.

Fishing Test Case

Indian Boy Charged

NANAIMO (CP) — An Indian boy, charged with juvenile delinquency by violating fishery laws, is due to appear in juvenile court here Monday.

Vancouver lawyer Tom Berger, the boy's counsel, said Friday he anticipates the case will be adjourned pending an appeal by the provincial government against a County Court decision this week which ruled a proclamation by King George III in 1763 overruled the B.C. Game Act.

Two Indians from the Nanaimo band, Clifford White and David Bob had earlier been convicted of shooting deer out of season on Crown land but Judge A. J. Swencicki upheld an appeal.

RIGHT TO FISH

He ruled that Vancouver Island Indians, under the proclamation, have always had the right to hunt or fish for food on unoccupied land.

The Crown will appeal the decision, on instruction from the attorney-general's office.

The boy is alleged to have used a gillnet to fish for salmon in the Nanaimo River last fall. The Federal Fisheries Act, under which he was charged, prohibits fishing in a spawning river.

B.C. Indian leaders say they don't intend to exploit game and fish following Judge Swencicki's decision.

NANAIMO — An 18-year-old Nanaimo youth was sentenced on two different theft convictions in magistrate's court and County Court Friday.

Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts sentenced Brian Tweed to nine months in the Young Offenders Unit at Oakalla and a year's probation for cashing a worthless $50 cheque.

In County Court, Tweed was sentenced to one year in jail and one year probation after his conviction on a theft charge.

Judge Arnold Hanna had earlier found the youth guilty of taking a portable television set and a transistor radio from the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Winney.

Thief Escapes Flaming Wreck

DUNCAN — A thief escaped death yesterday after the car he had stolen plunged down a 40-foot embankment on Tsouhalem Road near Jaynes Road, caught fire and was destroyed.

Jack Rosendahl said the car was probably taken from his service station about 1 a.m.

The accident occurred shortly before 2 a.m. The north Cowichan (Southern) Volunteer Fire Brigade had the blaze under control in minutes.

Fearing that the driver had been injured and thrown from the car, firemen searched the wreckage without success.

The thief is still at large. A resident near the scene said at the approximate time of the accident he heard a speeding car proceeding east on Tsouhalem Road, and later heard a strange noise.

He said at the time he did not realize what had happened because speeding cars are quite common on that straight road stretch.

Fire Razes Second Rural Home

ALBERNI — The Richard Gus family of Second Reserve here lost their home in a fire Thursday afternoon.

It was the second rural home to go up in flames in the Alberni district within 24 hours.

Robert Johnston, Beaver Creek Road, a heavy machinery operator lost his house and contents in a blaze on Wednesday. Mrs. Johnston was in hospital, and the children of the family were staying with friends when the fire broke out.

Damage was estimated at approximately $6,500 for the house and $4,000 for contents. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Mill Man Impaled On Board

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peter Caban was reported in fair condition in hospital Friday with injuries suffered when he was impaled on a board at a mill on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Politicians Praise Veteran Clerk

Politicians paid tribute in the legislature yesterday to E. K. DeBeck, clerk of the legislative assembly, who is 81 years old today.

Premier Bennett, in wishing a happy birthday to Mr. DeBeck, told the House, "Years are not the only judge of a man's ability. . . . It is the spirit of a man that counts."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said, "He is a most outstanding adjunct to this House."

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said, "He has been an inestimable help to all in the House, including our five Liberals."

Mr. DeBeck was not in the House when the tributes were paid at the opening of yesterday's sitting.

Plastic Daffodil Praised By Grower of Real Thing

One of the most enthusiastic backers of the tiny plastic daffodils to be sold in connection with the Victoria Spring Flower Festival is the leading live daffodil grower in the Saanich Peninsula.

"I think it's a good way of promoting the festival," flower grower G. A. Vantreight said last night of the small daffodils which the chamber plans to sell to be worn in the buttonhole.

"I don't think it hurts my business at all. It's going to keep people thinking of flowers."

Mr. Vantreight said the tiny plastic daffodils can be worn all day and in fact for the duration of the festival, while live daffodils would quickly wilt.

A tiny plastic daffodil in a buttonhole is "a lot neater and tidier than a live one."

IN CONTAINER

"The place for a live daffodil is in a vase or a container."

He added, "I'd like to see a plastic daffodil in every lapel during the festival."

Bernard Cox of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce said recently that the miniature plastic daffodils are to be available at the beginning of next week.

But if plastic daffodils aren't causing Mr. Vantreight any concern, live ones are.

"The great thing I'm looking for is some warm weather."

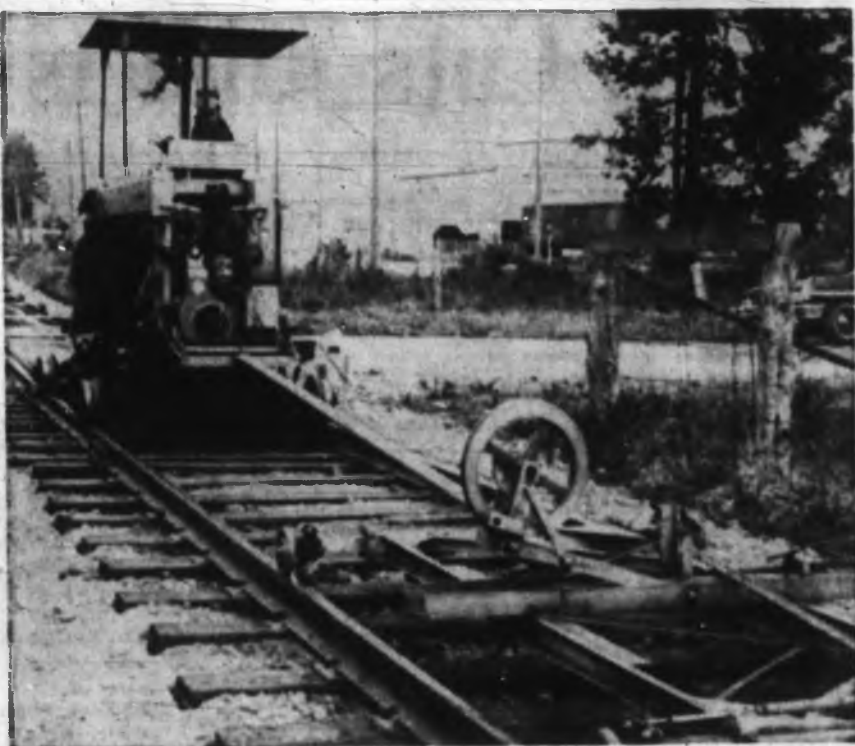

He said some of the daffodils he was hoping to have by Easter now are three or four inches out of the ground, but others are up only about two inches.

"Another three weeks and it will be all over."

He said the demand for daffodils drops sharply after Easter.

The slow, steady growth this year will make for high-quality daffodils, he said, but the big concern in the daffodil industry is whether the flowers will be grown soon enough.

Employment Picture Brighter at Duncan

DUNCAN — Employment in this area was generally favorable last month.

A total of 550 men and 167 women were registered for employment in February, compared with 1,001 men and 150 women a month ago, said Robert S. Robinson, manager of the National Employment office here.

For the same period last year, the totals were 535 men and 213 women. All logging operations, with the exception of the Meade Creek camp of Western Forest Industries Ltd., continued to operate with slightly reduced crews, mostly fallers.

SAWMILLS BUSY
Sawmills worked at almost full capacity. The Kraft Paper Mill of B.C. Forest Products at Crofton, maintained normal production.

A shortage of experienced carpenters and construction laborers is expected to develop within the next few weeks, as a heavy program of construction gets under way.

Activity at the B.C. Forest Products pulp and paper division, Crofton, was at peak level and, together with commercial, school and home construction, resulted in an abnormally small number of skilled carpenters and laborers being unemployed during the winter months.

ON COURSE

Interest in vocational training continued. Two handicapped applicants were referred to the building maintenance service course at Vancouver.

Several persons were also referred or directed to several courses at provincial or private schools.

Local applicants, many in the special placement category, have been successfully placed on completion of the timekeeping and first aid courses at the B.C. Vocational School at Nanaimo.

Mental Health Parley

Proposed government mental health legislation will be discussed Monday by a sub-committee of the Greater Victoria Community Welfare Council.

The sub-committee on services to handicapped children will pay particular attention to how the bill may affect services to children in this area, a council official said yesterday.

The Canadian Red Cross is a member of the world-wide organization known as the League of Red Cross Societies.

City Sends Thanks To Former Employee

ALBERNI — Service to his fellow-citizens was recognized when Thomas J. (Tip) O'Neill was presented with a memento from the City of Kamloops this week.

Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni made the presentation on behalf of Kamloops mayor Cyril Day. A leather-bound album containing personal messages from many of the men with whom Mr. O'Neill had served in public life came as a token of esteem from the interior city.

Mr. O'Neill, who is within months of his 82nd birthday, and his wife make their home with their son and daughter-in-law government agent Gordon O'Neill and Mrs. O. Neill, 710 Southgate Street.

"He has been a faithful public servant whose sage advice is now sadly missed. The quiet, pleasant ways of his lifetime partner are also well remembered." Mayor Day stated in a letter to Mayor Bishop.

New Warship Here in April

The new destroyer escort HMCS Qu'Appelle will arrive the morning of April 23 to join Pacific Command, a navy source reports.

The Markenzie-class destroyer has been attached to the Atlantic Command in Halifax since she was commissioned at Davie Shipbuilding Ltd., Lauzon, Que., last September.

Hundred Hills

Salt Spring Subdivision Job Slated

GANGES — A new land development project has been announced by Salt Spring Lands Ltd., for the area above Ganges Harbor, adjacent to the paved road to Fulford.

The 300-acre development has been initiated by H & P Holdings Ltd., a local company associated with Salt Spring Lands.

The project will be known as "The Hundred Hills", in reference to the series of hills rising back from the Beddis Road to the old Divide Road.

Approximately 175 lots will be created, ranging from approximately one to three acres.

A water supply system is being designed and clearing of road right-of-way has already started.

The main Ganges-Fulford road will be treated as a limited access highway, with access to all lots being provided from the rear by new roads, so no private driveways will come out on the present road.

Building and zoning restrictions are planned, as are re-subdivision restrictions to prevent "splintering" after development.

The first stage, 40 lots lying to the west of the main road, is intended for completion by mid-summer.

19-Pounder Top So Far

COURTENAY — The White River steelhead derby at Sayward is well under way. The largest fish to date is a 19-pound six-ounce whopper caught by Herb Devine of Campbell River.

Second largest weighed in at 18 pounds, six ounces and several more of 16 and 17 pounds were recorded.

HAASE SENTENCED TO HANG FOR TWIN MURDER

Bonner: Courts To Merge

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said changes in British Columbia's supreme and county courts system approved in principle by the legislature Friday are a step toward merger of the two courts.

"I look to the time . . . when the two trial divisions of the county and supreme courts will become one," Mr. Bonner said. "perhaps under the current name of the Supreme Court of British Columbia."

He said the major overhaul would mean the stationing of "resident justices of the supreme court" in various parts of the province.

LIMITS REMOVED

Two bills given unanimous second reading in the House Friday had the effect of removing monetary limits on jurisdiction of county courts over lawsuits and empowering county court jurists to hear divorce proceedings.

The bills also permit use of juries in criminal cases before county court jurists and proclamation provisions would involve simplification of county court procedures along lines already adopted for the supreme court.

Mr. Bonner said the amendment.

Bonner's Fringe Benefit?

Gordon Dowding (NDP, Burnaby) had words of praise for Attorney-General Bonner Friday for his introduction of two bills revamping British Columbia's supreme and county courts system.

"They represent the most revolutionary change in the B.C. courts system since the abolition of the wig," he said.

"I was thinking of bringing that back," smiled the attorney-general, long a slave to "Yul Brynner" hair styles.

The offer begins in Sunday's Colonist, and columnist Chesnut warns there's a shortage.

Four Recaptured

Courthouse Madhouse During Break

DALLAS (AP)—Seven prisoners broke out of the county jail Friday and two of them turned the corridors around the Jack Ruby murder trial into bedlam. One captured a woman hostage with a fake pistol.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Player stopped the prisoner with the hostage and freed her, taking the prisoner into custody.

Less than two hours later four were recaptured, including two picked up in the courthouse and immediate area.

The hostage was Mrs. Ruth

Thornton, about 60, widow of a former district court judge.

Sheriff Bill Decker identified the man with the pistol made of soap as Clarence D. Gregory.

The Ruby trial was not disrupted. Reporters in the courtroom said no one knew of the corridor furor.

One heroine of the wild, screaming melee was Mrs. Melvin M. Belli, wife of Ruby's chief defence counsel. Ruby is on trial for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Mrs. Belli and Mrs. Rose-

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Mechanic Lawrence Herman Haase, 25, Friday was found guilty of murder in the deaths of pretty teen-aged twin sisters and sentenced to be hanged.

Haase, from Kelowna, was convicted of capital murder in the death of Donna Ring, 14, and sentenced to be hanged June 30.

In the death of Donna's twin sister Dianna, Haase was convicted of non-capital murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The defence indicated an appeal would be launched immediately.

There was no recommendation regarding clemency.

Mr. Justice H. Allen Maclean spent most of the day charging the jury, which took just under two hours to reach a verdict.

Donna and Dianna Ring were slain Oct. 7 near their father's resort at Mable Lake, 60 miles north of Kelowna in the Okanagan Valley.

10TH DAY

The verdict came as the trial stretched through its 10th day.

In convicting Haase, the jury heeded the plea of Crown prosecutor T. G. Bowen-Colthurst, who said the young mechanic should be convicted of capital murder in one death and non-capital murder in the other.

Defence counsel Norman Mullins, who called no witnesses, suggested that the killings had been committed by someone else who tried to throw suspicion onto Haase.

Troops Hard To Find

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Secretary-General U Thant Friday named an Indian general to head the United Nations Cyprus force, but ran into difficulties raising troops for it.

While Sweden agreed conditionally to provide a contingent, Brazil turned down Thant's request for men.

REPLIES DELAYED

Finland and Ireland also held off their replies while Austria, approached informally by Thant, was reported ready to contribute only a non-combat group such as a hospital unit.

A spokesman for Brazil's Ambassador Carlos Alfredo Bernades said his country could not raise sufficient hard currency to maintain a contingent in Cyprus.

EXPECTED U.S. AID

Diplomatic sources said Brazil had looked to the United States to provide financial backing for its contribution and apparently had been turned down. The UN announced the dispatch of the three-man team to

$150,000 Fire Hits Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A four-alarm fire gutted a flour and grain warehouse on the Montreal waterfront Friday night, causing damage estimated at $150,000.

Arrested Stripper To Testify

ORANGE, Tex. (UPI)—A brunette stripper who said Jack Ruby killed Lee Oswald to gain publicity will be escorted from Orange County jail to Dallas today to testify in Ruby's murder trial. (Ruby trial story, Page 5.)

Dallas Sheriff Bill Decker said Friday he has sent men here to fly with Penny Dollar, 21, to Dallas.

Miss Dollar was arrested in Orange and charged with possessing a dangerous drug. She told police she had been stripped in Ruby's Carousel Club when another dancer became ill.

The tall beauty said she had "known Ruby a long, long time. My mother striped for him 18 years ago."

President? Here? Tonight?

Yes, I'm from Dallas Yes, This Is a Gun

DALLAS (UPI)—He was from Dallas and had a rifle. And he showed up at Newark, N.J., airport only minutes before President Johnson was to arrive.

It was just the set of circumstances to get John Russell in a peck of trouble, and he said, "It's kinda funny now, but I sure wasn't laughing then."

Russell, an insurance agent, had been given the rifle by a Philadelphia friend and was bringing it home.

A Newark officer asked him if that was a gun he was carrying and did he know the president was coming.

"I said yes, I had a gun, handed it to him and said no, I didn't know the president was coming in," Russell said.

The guard asked Russell where he was from.

"Dallas," Russell replied.

"You haven't got a chance now," the guard said. Soon, New York city police, Newark city police, state police, Secret Service men and the FBI arrived.

"I knew I was in for it."

He was questioned for more than an hour before he convinced police he knew nothing about the president's arrival.

He was eight hours late getting home.

Army Awaiting Plan for Cyprus

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department Friday honed down its "operation Cyprus" plan to the finest details.

The army has even issued information pamphlets giving Cyprus' geography, climate, population, historical background and the current political situation.

About all that the department can do now is wait for the government to decide whether to meet the United Nations request for a Canadian manpower contribution to the Cyprus peace-keeping force.

External Affairs Minister Martin informed the Commons Friday that no decision can be reached until a three-man UN team returns from Cyprus with more information on the responsibilities of the force.

"Canada will not shirk its responsibility as a member of the United Nations," Mr. Martin asserted.

The UN has not informed Canada yet what kind or size of contribution it wants from this country: infantrymen or technical personnel, such as signallers.

Canada has not sent infantrymen to any UN operation since Korea. The UN requests have been for technicians in Egypt, The Congo and other trouble spots.

Officer Wins $35,000 Suit

TORONTO (UPI)—A Canadian army officer was awarded $35,000 in damages and costs Friday in a libel action against Time International of Canada Ltd., publishers of the Canadian edition of Time Magazine.

Major William Platt, 50, received the sum in an Ontario Supreme Court decision concerning a story in the May 12, 1962 Canada edition of Time about a ring smuggling opium between Vietnam and Laos.
